DOUBLE SUICIDE.
BULLETIN—Tokio, Sept. 13.—General Count Maresuke Nogii, supreme military commander, and his wife, the Countess Nogii, committed suicide tonight following the religious ceremonies in connection with the death of the late Emperor Mutsuhito.

Tokio, Sept. 13.—The second part of the ceremony in connection with the funeral of the late Emperor Mutsuhito of Japan took place tonight
when the casket containing the body of the late ruler started on its journey to Aoyama where it will be taken to Monoyama for final burial.
Imposing as had been the ceremonies
early in the event these did not fail to excite them with the contrast between ancient Shinto rites and the 20th century methods in conducting the passage of the funeral cortege through the streets of the capital tonight. It afforded the populace of the capital an opportunity to display their sorrow in the national bereavement and hundreds of thousands of people stood for hours in absolute silence as the procession passed on the first part of its journey to its last resting place. The streets were brilliantly lighted with torches and are lights at the sides of which were placed black and white poles surmounted with wreaths of evergreen. At seven in the evening those participating in the procession began to assemble at the palace. Among them were holders of merit and officials of many ranks. The foreign princes and special ambassadors included the special ambassador from the United States, Philander C. Knox, secretary of state. The foreign envoys and foreign diplomats went directly after the funeral service to Aoyama.

After the departure of their majesties the great procession was formed in line. Hundreds of retainers bearing bows and arrows, shields and halberds, and other old martial equipments were in line. Still other attendants carried sacred trees, caskets
of offerings, prayer scripts, gongs, peculiar shaped drums, and flutes.
Interspersed among them were hundreds of shinto ritualists and officers of the funeral corps.

The funeral car was immediately preceded by Count Togo, grand master of ceremonies, and Count Watanabe, minister of the imperial household, who were flanked by torch bearers.

The car-bearer the casket was of hard Japanese wood of very heavy structure and was borne on only two wheels. It was drawn by five oxen, each attended by seven drivers.
Alongside marched fifty young men from the village of Yase, near Kioto, hereditary bearers of the imperial palanquin, on ceremonial occasions.

The great funeral car, attended by a large number of Japanese of high rank wearing the ancient national court mourning costume consisting of an upper robe of horse chestnut color

AMERICAN ARMY IS READY TO ADVANCE
ON MEXICAN REBELSSlightest Danger to United States Citizens Will Mean Immediate Action—Rebels Are Leaving Agua Prieta?

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Sept. 13.—American troops may take a hand in the fighting at Agua Prieta if bombs fall in Douglas, Ariz., or lives are menaced on the American side of the Mexican boundary.

This was intimated today at the headquarters of the general staff of the army following receipt of advices that the rebel leader would disregard warnings that they must not fire in the direction of Douglas.

Troop commanders have blanket instructions to prevent a repetition of the killing of innocent Americans in Douglas during the Madero rebellion.
These are broad enough to cover practically any contingency and it was made plain today that any reasonable action by commanders would be upheld by the war department.

Further and more definite instructions may be issued by Major General
Wood, chief of staff, later today.
Brigadier General Steever reports 10 blustering expeditions crossing at Mexico, Nueces and Douglas.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 13.—The so-called "Alibuster expedition" by Americans into Mexico reported here last night proves to have been the flight of three Americans who had been told they were to be arrested for violating the neutrality laws.

Rebels Disappear.
El Paso, Tex., Sept. 13.—After firing
a few shots into Agua Prieta the rebels that have been threatening an attack on the town disappeared to the southwest early today. There was no battle according to advices received here.

Asks Intercession.
Washington, Sept. 13.—Senator O'Gorman has asked the state department to intercede for John Devine, son of Peter Devine, a New York contractor, captured with the Mexican rebels and sentenced to be shot.
Acting secretary Wilson has called upon ambassador Wilson at Mexico City for an immediate report.

Attack Americans.
Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 13.—Rebels have again begun an attack on El Tigle, the American mining settlement south of the border at this point according to advices received here today. There are 75 American men and six women isolated in the camp, which is defended by only a few federals. Reinforcements have been sent from Nacozari, but must follow a wrecked trail to reach the camp.

More Rebel Bands.
Mexico City, Sept. 13.—Newly organized rebel bands, the members styling themselves followers of Emilio Vasquez Gomez, have made their appearance in the state of Coahuila, and are marching on Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, the border town opposite Eagle Pass, Tex., according to consular reports received here today.

SAN DOMINGO AGAIN HAS A REVOLUTION;
TO SEND WARSHIPSUnited States Will Send Detachment of Fleet to Guard American And Foreign Interests.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Sept. 13.—The United States is about to intervene in San Domingo. War ships are being dispatched to the island. A revolution has broken out which threatens American and other foreign interests.

The gunboat Wheeling at Guantanamo,
the gunboat Tacoma at Bluefields, Nicaragua, and the protected cruiser, Des Moines, at Key West, each carrying a detachment of marines and full crew of bluejackets are the most available forces for the work.

None is more than three days from the island. The gunboat Petrol already is in San Domingan waters. The customs houses of the island controlled by the United States by treaty must be protected against seizure by the revolutionists.

Further than that advices today contained news of so serious a nature that the state department began preparations for immediate activity. The latest outbreak is believed to be promoted by the prime movers in the recent insurrection which culminated in the battle of Dajabon, August 4 to 6 when that place was taken by rebels.

Latest reports to the state department indicate that notwithstanding reassuring promises from the Dominican government that revolution has never been completely suppressed,
but has smoldered only to break out afresh and with great intensity.

Although the rebellion sentiment is supposed to be widely discriminated the focus is between Puerto Plata on the north coast and Sanchez on the Bay of Samana. The news reached here today of a battle at a small town in that section. Officials of the state and navy department here decided on further observation and to await developments the next day or two before dispatching war ships to the island.

Reports Rebel Surrender.
The Dominican legion has a cablegram that the revolutionary leader in the eastern department of the republic, General Julian Zovilla has surrendered with all his men. The number was not given.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW UNIFORM IMPROVEMENT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Sept. 13.—Dun's review
tomorrow will say: "A notably uniform improvement over both preceding years is again the most distinctive feature of bank clearing, the total this week at all leading cities in the United States aggregating $2,705,510,953 an increase of 6.9 per cent as compared with the same week last year and of 23.3 per cent as compared with the corresponding week in 1910."

SERIOUS BUILDERS' STRIKE

Cincinnati, Sept. 13.—On account of internal troubles the Building Trades' council today declared a strike of its members in this city and called out three thousand men employed on buildings now under construction.
The trouble started when the steamfitters' union refused to affiliate with the plumbers, which is a member of the Building Trades council.

MONEY NEEDED FOR

For State Campaign.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., Sept. 13.—"At least $15,000 will be needed to run the republican state campaign this year.
The state central committee has no resources except a Smith-Premier typewriter that isn't in very good working order." This is the statement made by William Essman, secretary of the republican state central committee today.

A new state central committee will be elected at the republican state convention next Tuesday. Thus far two men have been mentioned for state chairman, Theodore Kronsage of Milwaukee and Edwin Dithmar of Baraboo.

IDAHO ABORIGINES
GREET ROOSEVELTGroup of Blackfoot Indians Met Colonel Today on His Arrival.

At Blackfoot, Idaho.
Blackfoot, Idaho, Sept. 13.—A group of Blackfoot Indians welcomed Colonel Roosevelt today. The colonel arrived in Blackfoot after an all night ride
from Boise and spent two hours here.
He shook hands with the Indian braves
and patted the cheeks of the babes.
Then he made a speech to several hundred "pale faces." From Blackfoot, Col. Roosevelt started back to Pocatello and then was to go to Ogden Latah, to address the progressive state convention.

TAFT TO CELEBRATE
BIRTHDAY SUNDAYPresident Will be Guest of His Favor-

Birthday Party.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Beverly, Sept. 13.—President Taft's visit to his favorite aunt, Miss Delia Torrey at Milberry, on Sunday, is to be more than an ordinary one for he will be 55 years old that day and it is expected Aunt Delia will give him an old fashioned birthday party with all sorts of good things to eat.

Scores of Tafts from the surrounding towns are expected to shake hands with their distinguished relative.

New York lawyer, will make for his life, he said today, will be directed entirely by himself. He has not engaged counsel he added, and intended to plead in his own behalf when arraigned today before County Judge Royce on the charge of murdering his Viennese client, Mrs. Rosa Sobka, who met death while boating with him on Greenwood Lake, sixteen miles from here on July 16th.

CUNNINGHAM-ASAKLA CLAIMS DISPOSED OFAppeals in Case Which Brought About Ballinger-Pinchot Controversy, Adversely Decided.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Sept. 13.—All 33 so-called Cunningham-Alaska coal land claims involving alleged fraudulent blanket patents which contributed in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy have been disposed of finally by the interior department. The appeals have been adversely decided and Secretary Fisher has directed the immediate execution of the decision of Commissioner Bennett of the general land office who held the claims were improperly allowed and that the entries should be cancelled. Secretary Fisher took this final action on his second review of the cases.

No more of the real Cunningham claims are pending though the interior department is regularly passing upon other Alaskan claims somewhat similar to those of the Cunningham group. Of a thousand or more sets 300 already have been disallowed.

The Cunningham claims had an aggregate area of 5,250 acres and their value ran right into the millions. It had been alleged that a Morgan-Gungenheim syndicate owned the blanket claim of the Cunninghams and their associates. With the controversy over the claim came the dismissal from public service of Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot, Louis B. Glavin, a chief of the field division of the land office, and several minor officials.

THIRTEEN NO "HOO-DOO" FOR GOVERNOR WILSON.

Seagirt, N. J., Sept. 13.—On this Friday the 13th of the month Governor Woodrow Wilson sat in seat No. 13 in the parlor car returning to Seagirt today from his New York state trip. The presidential candidate liked the coincidence "13 is my lucky number," he said, "I usually get set 13 or room 13 wherever I go. The number 13 has run through my life constantly.
When I was in my 13th year as a professor of Princeton, I was elected the 13th president of the University.
There are just 13 letters in my name.
I am not afraid of No. 13."

CITY TO TAKE HAND
IN DULUTH STRIKE; VIOLENCE REPORTEDSpecial Session of City Council Will Be Called to Authorize Immediate Action.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Duluth, Minn., Sept. 13.—The street car situation remains unchanged
early today except that a persistent rain added to the difficulty of the pedestrians. No cars were running this morning. Mayor McCune is preparing to call a special meeting of the council to give authority to start suit and the city attorney is ready for immediate action. The Des Moines method will be used. There was no violence last night.

Mob Is Violent.
Violence growing out of street car strike here was resumed this morning when a strike breaking motor man bumped off the track an ice wagon which contained a strike sympathizer.
Immediately a mob formed, the glass was knocked from the street car and the crew of the car was routed. Another crew boarded the car turned on all power and dashed through the crowd.

Three cars were wrecked a couple of passengers were assaulted and a conductor and motorman escaped the fury of the mob only by flight late last night.

The first trouble occurred when a passenger, a boiler maker called a conductor a "scab," whereupon the conductor struck him over the head with a billey knocking him unconscious. Immediately a hubbub broke loose.

Cars Are Wrecked.
The crowd in the car composed, it is said, of men from the iron plants, broke up the interior of the car and piled up the seats. They then threw the seats at the conductor who ran followed by a shower of stones. Another car coming from behind drew the fire of the enraged crowd of men and boys. When attention was diverted the members of the crew took to their heels.

Another car was wrecked by a mob shortly afterward. The crew stayed with it and took it back to the barn.

Car Burned.
A riot in which many are participating has broken out in the car barns in the west end. Police and special officers have started to the scene.
Telephone reports stated that stone throwing started when a car was taken from the barn under strike breaker control.

Latest Reports.
The "starters' box" at Third avenue and Superior streets has been wrecked
by a newly organized crowd who broke the building up and threw it away.
Throughout the city great excitement prevails. Aside from beating conductors and motormen, however, the damage is done in a spirit of gloom.

On Lake avenue in the heart of the city a conductor was dragged from a car this afternoon and so badly beaten that he had to be helped from the street to a drug store after being thrown through a plate window. His motor man attempted to help him and received a beating. Iron workers from the boiler shops near the bay are said to have handled the men.

First Shot Fired.
The first revolver shooting of the strike was reported this afternoon from the mob at the car barns. No one was hurt. An unconscious conductor taken to a drug store is believed to be badly injured. He was beaten and stoned and his car practically dismantled. The police are giving fight with the mob.

WILSON AND BRYAN
MEET IN OCTOBERDemocratic Leaders Will Speak From Same Platform in Lincoln, Nebraska, Oct. 5th.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Sept. 13.—Governor
Woodrow Wilson will meet William Jennings Bryan in Lincoln, Nebraska, October 5th when the presidential nominee and the former standard bearer of the Democratic ticket will speak from the same platform. Governor Wilson made this announcement before leaving here for Seagirt early today. On the date mentioned Mr.
Bryan will have completed his stump-ing tour in the Northwest and the Pacific Coast states and Governor Wilson will be on his stumping tour in the west.

"There is only one thing in which Governor Woodrow Wilson has let his campaign managers boss him" said Chairman McAdoo today, "and that is in the matter of making engagements for him."

MINNESOTA PLEASES
GOVERNOR JOHNSONRunning Mate to Bull Moose Encouraged by Greeting Received After Trying Time in Wisconsin.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rochester, Minn., Sept. 13.—Only one engagement and the address of Huron, South Dakota, at the state fair today, were on Governor Johnson's program. He left here after an address last night and expected to make an address this afternoon at the fair. The governor was greatly pleased with his warm reception in Minnesota. Coming, as it did, after a trying day in Wisconsin where the progressive party leaders are not exactly certain which way they will jump on the state ticket, and with the people waiting for a statement from Governor McGovern on his attitude regarding the presidential race, it was doubtfully encouraging. "This makes me feel as if I were back home," said
the governor as he shook hands with a crowd of people on leaving.

FARMERS NEED HELP
TO SOLVE PROBLEMSHead of Georgia Agricultural School Talks to Bankers Urging Scientific Farm Instruction.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Detroit, Sept. 13.—The need of extension teaching in agriculture, what such instruction should include, plans for organizing the work involved in a campaign for agricultural education and what has been accomplished already, were discussed today by Andrew M. Soule, President of the Georgia State College of Agriculture at the session of the American Bankers' Association. Mr. Soule's address in part follows:

"The object matter considered under this caption may be divided into four sections: first, Is there need of extension teaching in agriculture?
second, What should extension teaching include? third, Suggestions for the organization of the work along efficient lines; fourth, Some data with reference to the progress and results attained by this method of instruction."

"The present condition of our agriculture is unsatisfactory. It is evident to the most casual observer that a great depletion in soil fertility has taken place in recent years, nor has the malpractice in this direction been arrested. The yields per acre of our farm crops have fallen to an alarming degree and this in spite of the sporadic efforts made here and there to maintain or increase yields on the part of the farmer by the use of various soil amendments. The situation is therefore one of national concern, and the importance of the case cannot be overestimated."

"There is much talk at the present time of the movement back to the land. The great need is to point out to the land owner, and to the boy and girl living in the country the possibilities of farming where scientific policies are inaugurated, and when this is done the urban movement will have been checked."

"Under systematic instruction may be included what is known as the extension school, which undertakes, as its name shows, to carry on definite instructions along certain lines into a given community for a period of three days to a month. This is probably one of the most efficient forms of extension teaching which can be inaugurated
in any state."

"The experimental farm or definite soil test area will follow next in importance. Correspondence courses would be found helpful in the lecture and reading course which would be helpful in many communities. In other instances study clubs may be formed, and last but not least under this division would be ranked the work of the boys' and girls' clubs."

"It is now conceded that the agricultural colleges and experiment stations have had a marvelous influence on the economic development of the United States. It is quite certain that the service which these institutions have rendered up to the present time is to be greatly magnified through the development of their extension teaching facilities."

KAISER'S ONLY DAUGHTER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, Sept. 13.—Princess Victoria Louise, the Kaiser's only daughter, celebrated her twentieth birthday anniversary today. The princess was born at the Marmoor palace, near Potsdam, on September 13, 1892, and was christened Victoria Louise Adelaide Charlotte. She has always been a great favorite with her father. In view of the German custom of early marriages some surprise has been expressed both at home and abroad that the Princess Victoria Louise should attain the age of 20 and still be heart whole and fancy free. Reports of her betrothal to this or that scion of European royalty have been circulated from time to time ever since the princess made her debut some three or four years ago, but each report has turned out to be nothing more than idle rumor. The most brilliant match which has been mentioned for her is Prince Karl, heir presumptive to the throne of Austria. The handsome ex-King Manuel of Portugal was also mentioned as a suitor, but the loss of his throne put him out of the running.
Prince Leopold of Battenberg, brother of the Queen of Spain, was also mentioned, but the one whom court circles in Berlin believe to have the best chance of becoming the Kaiser's son-in-law is the young Grand Duke Adolph Frederick of Mecklenburg-Strelitz.

WOULD INVESTIGATE CAMPAIGN GIFTS OF TAFT AMBASSADORSPennsylvania Congressman May Ask
Clapp Committee To Probe 1908
Contributions of Ambassadorship Aspirants.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Sept. 13.—The senate campaign expenditure committee is ready to extend its investigation to contributions to President Taft's 1908 campaign fund by aspirants for ambassadors. Representative Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania has announced his purpose of asking the committee to investigate the resignation of Dr. David Jayne Hill, as ambassador to Germany.

Chairman Clapp of the senate committee said today that if demand were made for such an inquiry the committee would grant it so far as it came within the scope of its authority. In the records of the republican national committee for 1908 on file with the senate committee several contributions to the Taft 1908 fund by American foreign ministers and ambassadors were disclosed.

Larry Anderson, minister to Belgium gave $25,000; Witlaw Ried, ambassador to Great Britain $10,000;
Robert Bacon, ambassador to France,
$5,000; Richard C. Kerens, ambasador to Austria Hungary $10,000; Myron T. Herrick, now ambassador to France was then chairman of the Ohio state committee and asserts he turned over to the national committee a total of $500,000 for the campaign.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Post cards sent to friends in Chicago enabled the police to locate Albert Chapman, 16 years old, at Stevens Point, Wis., where he is under arrest according to word received today. The boy is charged with cashing his employer's draft for $720.

One Thing in which America Leads the Styles and Excels the World is—ShoesBy J. R. HAMILTON Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

SOME morning, should you be quietly ambling along a Paris Boulevard, feeling about as perfectly Parisian as any little statue in the Louvre, you would get the shock of your life at hearing yourself addressed in execrable English by some cabby on the curb. And from then until the time you wave again at the Statue of Liberty you will be reminded at least once a day that you are not so perfectly continental as you thought you were.

And the answer lies in your shoes—just your good, attractive everyday American shoes will tell the tale. And furthermore, as you drift along, you will find that those shoes are admired. In fact there are no shoemakers in the world to equal our own Americans.

You will find everything in Europe from Sabots to Turkish Trophies, but nowhere will you find the ease and comfort and quiet style of the shoes you brought from home.

England realizes this and we are shipping shoes to England.
Even Paris women are realizing it and are taking with fascination to the dainty American pump.

So here is one great thing American which does not rely even for its styles on foreign lands.

If you will follow the shoe advertising in this paper for the next few days, you will be surprised at the many handsome styles of shoes that are being displayed. You will find the display of National makes whose names are as familiar to your mind as any name you know. And you will find such shoes as standard in quality, in durability and in style as any product made throughout the world.

If you read carefully, you will get some big shoe opportunities too in the matter of price. For the shoe industry in America is so large that scores of carloads of staple brands are going every day at a sacrifice. With an industry so large, a constant economic waste cannot be avoided.

Shoe advertising above, everything else should be followed every day because shoes are one of the greatest necessities and expenses we have and because every day's news in the world of shoes is vital news.

Familiarize yourself once more with the staple brands that have planted American footprints all over the globe.

BELOIT ASSESSMENT IS THREE MILLIONS UNDER JANESVILLE

Janesville Real Estate Alone Over Million And A Half More Than Beloit's Assessment Figures.

Beloit's total assessed valuation is nearly three million dollars less than that of the city of Janesville according to the assessment figures filed at the office of the county clerk.

In the matter of real estate alone the valuation for Janesville is over a million and a half dollars more than Beloit's while the difference in personal property valuation is nearly as large.

The total assessed valuation for Beloit is $12,089,082 and that for Janesville, $15,031,201, or an exact difference of $2,942,219, with the burden on Janesville.

The valuation of Beloit real estate, farming property, city lots and their improvements is placed at $9,685,187 by their assessors, against Janesville's $11,210,400, or a difference of $1,525,213.

Beloit's personal property valuation is $2,403,895, while $3,820,895 is the local assessment, a difference of $1,416,940.

The assessed valuation of Janesville is virtually the same as that placed by the state tax commission's assessors in the reassessment last winter. Beloit's valuation was placed by their own city assessors. Janesville's valuation according to the last census was something over 14,000 while Beloit's total approached the 16,000 mark.

What seems to be an inequality in the valuations of the two cities has been remarked by a number of men familiar with property values in the two cities. Under the old valuation for Janesville the two were about the same, Janesville usually being assessed at ten million dollars.

It is rumored that a reassessment of Beloit property may be called for this fall. How authentic this is cannot be learned, and as far as known, no petition has yet been presented to the tax commission.

Edgerton and Evansville.
The assessment valuation of property in Evansville and Edgerton figures for which are on file in the clerk's office are of interest.

The figures for Evansville are as follows: Total valuation of personal property, $454,420; total valuation of real estate, $1,626,845; total valuation, $2,081,265.

Edgerton's figures are as follows: Total valuation of personal property, $856,317; total valuation of real estate, $1,573,780; total valuation, $2,429,097.

TRAIN STRIKES MAN GRINDING REMAINS BEYOND RECOGNITION

Unknown Man Supposed To Have Been A Farm Hand Meets Horrible Death Near Avalon This Morning.

Grinding his body into pieces and scattering the remains for a distance of two hundred yards, freight train No. 142, Janesville and Chicago, on the St. Paul road, dealt death in a horrible fashion to a man whose identity is unknown, about five miles out of Janesville at eleven o'clock this morning.

The train which leaves Janesville at 10:50 a. m., was in charge of Conductor Joss with Engineer Richard Prichard and Fireman Fred Chappi, in the engine cab. The train was moving at a good rate of speed, according to Engineer Prichard, and was rounding a curve a short distance out of Janesville and this side of Avalon, when the body of a man was seen protruding across the track. It was impossible to bring the train to a stop and the terrible tragedy resulted.

The accident was reported to the operator at Avalon who wired to the dispatcher at Chicago. He, in turn, notified the St. Paul railway agent here at about 12:15 o'clock. The police were at once notified of the accident and a party consisting of Police John Brown, District Attorney Dunwiddie, Clarence Micka, and a reporter from the Gazette office went to the scene in the automobile of Dr. R. W. Edden. To reach the spot where the man was struck it was necessary to take a hand car for about half a mile back from the nearest crossing.

The trunk and lower limbs of the unfortunate man were found about six hundred feet beyond the point where he was struck, and it was completely stripped of clothing which was found scattered along the track together with fragments of the remains. The man's skull and head had been crushed into bits.

M. Joyce, section foreman, reports that he saw a man walking down the track about fifteen minutes before the accident which he did not witness. He was about three-quarters of a mile away, too far to distinguish who he was, or describe him.

It is believed that the man killed was a middle aged man and a farmer. He wore heavy cow-hide shoes, overalls, a cap with fur lined flaps, and the initials "F. W." were printed on his shirt. His pockets were full of chaff, indicating that he had been working with a threshing crew. He also carried a pair of canvas mittens, evidently of child's size. His coat had been bought in Belvidere.

The remains were taken to the undertaking rooms of D. Ryan & Sons. No inquest will be held. Every effort will be made to discover the identity of the man.

TODAY ANNIVERSARY FIRST AMERICAN TIN PLATE MILL
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Elwood, Ind., Sept. 12.—Hundreds of visitors, among them former Vice President Fairbanks, United States Senator Kern, Daniel G. Reid of New York and other men of wide prominence, came to Elwood today to take part in the celebration of Tin Plate day, the twentieth anniversary of the building here of the first tin mill in America. It was on Sept. 13, 1892, that the first tin mill was formally opened here with an oration by William McKinley, at that time governor of Ohio. The mill opened with a small force of tin plate makers from Wales, from which country practically all of the tin used in the United States up to that time had been imported. The pioneer mill proved successful, beyond the expectations of its promoters and the building of other mills here speedily followed. Within a few years thousands of workmen were employed in the new industry and Elwood had grown from a mere hamlet to a thriving city.

A FORMER RESIDENT DROWNS AT ROCKFORD

Edward Holland Meets Death When He Leaps From Boat Into Rock River—Interment Here Saturday.

Edward Holland, until five years ago a resident of Janesville, but whose home is now at 324 Madison street at Rockford, Ill., was drowned in Rock river a short distance above Rockford, at six o'clock Wednesday evening.

In company with John Jones, and Jack Horan also of Rockford, Holland went up the river to spend a few days in camp and fishing. Late in the afternoon they started to row across the river to get a pall of water at the Stohlgren brothers' camp, near the Lyford farm. Jones was rowing and when near the west bank Holland proposed to swim to shore and leap for overhanging, did not realize Holland's danger as he plunged into the water and became helpless.

The Stohlgren brothers had observed the incident from the shore and hastened to the spot. The water was shallow and the body was recovered in a few minutes. They worked over Holland for half an hour, with no sign of returning consciousness. Death came so quickly that it may have been due to heart failure rather than drowning.

Coroner McAllister of Winnebago county, was notified and he and a Rockford physician hastened to the scene of drowning and arrived there at 7:15. Meanwhile Holland's companions had disappeared. Jones had gone to his tent and Horan had evidently desisted to avoid the publicity that would follow the unfortunate affair.

Holland's body was brought to Rockford by the coroner to await the action of the coroner's jury which was called at 1 o'clock.

Holland is survived by his daughter Mrs. Louis Bradley, 324 South Madison street. He was about 37 years of age and was familiarly known as "Teddy."

He was a brother-in-law of Edward Brown of this city. The funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the home in Rockford, and the remains will be brought to Janesville on the interurban, arriving at four o'clock. Interment will be made in Mount Olivet cemetery. His wife died several years ago.

FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH; ARE YOU SUPERSTITIOUS?

If Things Have Gone Wrong Today You Can Find A Reason When You Look At The Calendar.

Friday, the thirteenth. People with a superstitious dread of the date and pessimistic fear of disasters, accidents, deaths in the family and even the calamity of the clock's leaving, may be reassured.

For the last few Fridays, the thirteenth, have been the picnic, most uneventful twenty-four hour spans imaginable. Nothing out of the ordinary has happened just because the combination of the hoodoo Friday and the unlucky thirteen moves people who believe in ghosts to fold their hands and await the inevitable with fatalistic dread.

It has always disappointed the pessimists, even to the point of appearing with the sun in the role of one of the most beautifully weathered days of the whole year.

LAST MEETING OF SUMMER CLUB HELD YESTERDAY

Mrs. O. A. Oestreich Hostess to Members of Economics Club at Picnic in Riverview Park.

The final meeting of the year of the Summer Club of Household Economics was held yesterday afternoon in Riverview Park. Mrs. O. A. Oestreich being the hostess. The tent which has been used for evangelistic meetings was secured, and a picnic dinner was served in it. The meeting of the club was also held there and a program given. Mrs. Look of Racine was the principal speaker, her subject being "Woman Up-to-Date," a direct discussion of the woman's suffrage question being given. Short talks were also given by Mrs. G. E. Rumlil, who spoke of the work of the club in taking care of the Fresh Air children from Chicago, and by Mrs. Osgood, who talked on paper bag cookery. After singing "America," the club adjourned until the annual meeting for the election of officers in January.

Pitcher Hi Cole came upon the baseball horizon like a comet, dazzled everybody for a while and is now fading away. His major league career has been short, but brilliant. He first attracted the attention of fans by pitching the sensational game for the Chicago Cubs in the fall of 1909. On 1910 he shone brilliantly. His percentage of victories in that season was a great one and was the main factor in giving the Cubs the championship of the National League. In the world's series with the Athletics Manager Chance made one of the few mistakes of his career by holding Cole back and depending upon the older men. Last year Cole made a record of eighteen wins and only seven defeats. But early in the present season he began to weaken and Chance traded him off to Pittsburgh. The Pirates have no use for him and will send him back to the minors.

Leo De Tray, the former University of Chicago football star, will coach the University of Mississippi eleven this fall. He will start work on the squad on September 20.

There has been a lot of discussion about Walter Camp's new football rules which will go into operation this fall. Last year's rules were not popular, because under them scoring was almost impossible. This year the rulemakers have gone to the other extreme and scoring is likely to be enormous. Any defense developed, it is said, will be helpless against a heavy, fairly fast back field, working to gain ten yards in four downs. In making over the rules for this season the idea seems to have been to favor the offense and weaken the defense.

correspondingly.

"Walter Johnson is far and away a better pitcher than Joe Wood," recently declared Larry Lajole of the Cleveland Naps, who is supposed to be an authority on such things. "Wood has been pitching 'way beyond his ability this season, simply because he has had a great team working with him. There never was, and I doubt if there ever will be, as great a pitcher as Johnson. He simply has so much stunt and speed that if he turned loose his hardest stuff on it, no catcher could get down in time to receive the ball."

"If all the pitchers in the league were like Johnson the pitcher's box would have to be placed at the second base so one club could get a run without the game going into extra innings."

There will be a good fight down in New Orleans next month when little Joe Mandot, the man who crummed Rivers, will meet Willie Ritchie the San Francisco lightweight. The fight will be ten rounds, no decision. The weight agreed upon is 133 pounds, six hours before the fighters enter the ring, and both men have agreed not to fight in the meantime. Ritchie and his manager Billy Nolan, will go to New Orleans the last of this month and establish training quarters. In the meantime Mandot is billed for a week's engagement at a New Orleans theatre beginning Sunday, September 15.

Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight, took unto himself a 16-year-old wife the other day. The wedding was solemnized in a London church. Many noted athletes watched the ceremony.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE WILL SOON BE OUT

Coach Curtis of High School Team Says It Will Be Announced Early Next Week—Two Games Arranged.

About twenty-five football men were on hand for their second practice last night. The same exercises were gone through with, and the addition was a short signal practice of the backfield men. Two sets of backfield men were given practice. Harold Mohr ran the quarterback position with James Stewart as his contender. Cummings was placed at half. Cannon resumed his old position as snapperback. Falter was shifted to half to increase his speed. Some line plunge signals were developed by the old backfield, and they met with much success. Coach Curtis announced today that the schedule would be out the first of next week. Letters have been received from Wayland Academy of Beaver Dam, Wis., and also from Whitewater Normal School. These teams are fairly heavy but it is doubtful if games can be arranged, as the locals are out to meet just high school teams in an effort to capture some high honors.

The following are the games arranged to date.

Jefferson H. S. at Janesville, Oct. 12.

Janesville at Lake Geneva on Oct. 19.

MOTORCYCLISTS NEARING HOME ON A LONG TRIP

E. A. Paulson and Paul Zick Were Here Today On Way To Rockford From The Dakotas.

E. A. Paulson and Paul Zick, two young motorcyclists, were in the city today on their way to Rockford, which place they expected to reach before evening. The young men came to this city on their way home from the Dakotas, where they have spent the past year. They have been on the road about three weeks. They stopped here just long enough this morning to make repairs to a tire on Paulson's machine and secure gasoline. Mr. Paulson took part in a race in this city about a year ago.

Charles ("Chic") Evans.

National Champion Harold H. Hilton of the Royal Liverpool golf club of England found his match in Western Champion Charles Evans of the Edgewater country club of Chicago in the qualifying round of the national amateur championship Labor day. Evans tied with Hilton, the two leading the field with scores of 153. It was only by a spectacular finish that the young Chicagoan was able to finish on even terms with the famous Britisher. The day following Hilton was eliminated from the championship race when he was defeated by C. G. Waldo, Jr., of Bridgeport, Conn.

CREDIT FACILITIES NEEDED FOR FARMER

Charles A. Conant Addresses American Bankers on Subject of "Land and Agricultural Credit."

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 13.—The advisability of forming a "co-operative democracy of state mortgage loan banks, united into a powerful central organism, for strengthening commercial banking credit," was recommended for consideration of the American Bankers' Association here today by Charles A. Conant. The subject of Mr. Conant's address was "Land and Agricultural Credit."

Mr. Conant began by referring to the pressure of population upon food supply and the necessity of increasing the area of cultivated land by improved methods of extending credit to the farmer. He pointed out that bitter experience had proved projects for issuing money upon land to be unsound, but that Europe had solved the problem of the ready transferability of mortgage loans and low rates of interest to the borrower by taking a leaf from the experience of the limited liability company in the issue of bonds and shares.

"In Europe," he said, "the man who has money to lend upon mortgage is no longer obliged to make personal examination of the property, nor to risk his capital upon a single investment in a non-transferable form. He has only to buy a negotiable bond, coupon or registered, according to his preference, which he can sell as readily as the bond of the government, and with even less risk of fluctuation in its price. He has behind the bond not merely the land, the source of all wealth, but he has the pledge of a stock company that they have examined the properties upon which loans have been made, that all such properties are held in the aggregate as assets against the outstanding bonds, and that the company has in addition an adequate capital to cover any unexpected shrinkage in the value of the property behind its bonds."

"The bonds issued by the Credit Foncier of France under this system are made attractive to the borrower by the system of amortization by which they are paid off, and by the long terms over which the amortization extends. In the loans made by the Credit Foncier of France, more than three-quarters are for periods of fifty years or more, so that the amortization charge involves only a small addition to the normal interest."

"The rate of interest charged upon loans during the last few years by the Credit Foncier of France has been 4.30 per cent. For a loan repayable in thirty years, the semi-annual payment required has been 2.82 per cent, or just under 3 per cent, making the two payments for the year equal to 5.64, or just under 6 per cent. Where the loan is for forty years, the sum of the two annual payments falls to 5.259 per cent, and for fifty years to 4.832 per cent. It may not be possible to float bonds in this country at a rate so low as to permit loans upon mortgage at 4.30 per cent, but even if 5 or 5 1/2 per cent is charged, the additions for the amortization of the principal will not be materially greater than in the case of the loans made by the Credit Foncier of France.

The speaker discussed briefly the system of co-operative popular banks, which has obtained its widest extension in Germany.

"The Raiffeisen system of popular banks is based upon the principle of co-operation among farmers, usually peasant proprietors," he continued. "The principle upon which these are established is that of the unlimited joint and several liability of the members but as limited liability has been found to afford adequate protection, about eight per cent of the German banks are now based upon limited liability rather than unlimited."

"The credit extended by these banks is chiefly personal rather than by way of mortgage security," the speaker said, "the united guarantee of the members of a society being adequate protection to the lender for the repayment of the money borrowed. The working capital is derived from the shares which are paid up by the members, the reserve fund, savings deposits and deposits on current account, and finally the sums which the bank procures by means of loans from central co-operative banks, other types of banks, or private individuals. The business of the rural bank consists for the most part in making advances to the members. Surplus cash on hand is deposited with the central banks or invested in banking operations with third parties."

Summing up the relations between the proposed plan of the Monetary Commission for bank-note reform and land mortgage banks, Mr. Conant declared that the farmer has the right to demand the same facilities and opportunities for obtaining credit as the manufacturer and merchant, with the limitation that the facilities afforded him must be based upon sound banking principles.

Life's Realities. Women must wonder occasionally that they don't meet any men like the hero in a fashionable novel. And that can also be played the other way across.

Trouble Helms. "We helmsmen have many rivals for our hands," "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "you must feel as if the pathway of life were filled with pocketbook snatchers."

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP IN PRACTICE.
"In a report made to the mayor of New York city by the commissioner of accounts, after a thorough examination, it is shown that the loss to the city through the operation of its own ferries has amounted to $6,625,000 in the seven years of the experiment. The city had invested, including terminals, $10,739,267 up to the close of 1911 on which it now pays interest of almost half a million dollars a year, which, of course, must be added to the total that the taxpayers are out.
"So far as the city is concerned, the acquisition of the ferries has been a bad bargain, which may have been necessitated by the exigencies of the case, and having ample forewarning that the ferries did not pay expenses, the municipal managers, with that disregard which such managers always have for the public money, plunged into a campaign of expenditure which has been unparalleled in these waters. There was never, apparently, any attempt to apply ordinary business prudence to the undertaking. Service, terminals and boats were all made to cost as much as possible, and the result has been a far greater loss than was necessary under ordinary careful management."
The Wall Street Journal thus discourses on the fallacy of city ownership, and the principle applies to all classes of public utilities, not only in New York, but throughout the country. The public business comes as near being nobody's business, as anything yet discovered, and the public crib is so easy of access that this kind of money is always considered easy money.
The ferry service, referred to, includes five boats, which ply between the Battery and Staten Island, a distance of five miles. These boats cost half a million dollars each and are operated by three eight-hour shifts, representing fifty-four employees.
The same class of boats, operated by the Pennsylvania railroad, employ one third the number of people, for the same class of service. That's the difference between public and private ownership, so far as this item is concerned, and it is true of every other department.
The government, the state or the city has no right to invest the people's money in private enterprises, because inefficient management is bound to follow, to say nothing of graft, which is not uncommon.

BEET CULTURE AT HOME AND ABROAD.
"United States consuls in Germany and Russia report large beet crops in those countries. In Germany the acreage and production have both increased, the former about 9 per cent. In Russia there is a decrease in acreage of about 3 per cent. In both cases comparison is made with the planting and yield of last year, the net increase is considerable, but will not of itself offset the shrinkage in cane production. Some of the figures are highly instructive. In Germany the acreage planted in beets this year is 1,350,077, as against 1,243,652 in 1911. In Russia the acreage planted in beets this year is 1,397,000, as against 1,955,000 last year. In Germany there are 341 beet sugar factories in actual operation; in Russia it is expected that the production of beet sugar for 1912-13 will be 1,177,420 tons of 2240 pounds.
"In the United States, with all of the advantages enjoyed by its farmers, the acreage does not compare with that planted and harvested in either of the two European countries above named. It is increasing annually, but up to the year 1909-10, for all the states engaged in the industry, it was only 420,000. These states were California, Colorado, Idaho, Michigan, Utah, Wisconsin, Colorado leading. Since then there has been a great development of beet culture in the Southwest. The seventh sugar factory of the Los Angeles district has just been established on the Chino ranch, below Ponomo. The American Sugar company has about 7,000 acres under cultivation in the San Fernando valley. Elsewhere in the Southwest sugar beet growing is becoming an important branch of agriculture, while Michigan and other states are exhibiting the normal ratio of increase in production. But there is no such expansion visible in this as in some other American industries."
An exchange has this to say about the sugar beet industry. It will be noticed that the United States produces but a fragment of the crop, and this is also true concerning cane. In fact the home production of both beet and cane sugar represents but 14 per cent of the amount we consume, as a people. If the tariff were not a local issue it might be safe to discuss the suggestion that America pays $53,000,000 annually in sugar duties to protect an industry that furnishes but 14 per cent of the supply.
But the tariff is a local issue and Janesville and Rock county has some interests at stake. Congressman Davidson, of the Sixth district said, the other day, that he favored the tariff on sugar because Oshkosh was planning to install a beet sugar factory. That's the sort of statesmanship that's demanded in all localities that would be affected by a downward revision of the tariff.

The Tammany leaders of New York discovered yesterday that Governor Wilson was not a good political mixer. They had planned a surprise for him at the Syracuse state fair, but their attempt to turn the occasion into a political love feast was a failure. The governor don't propose to be contaminated at this stage of the game. He was nominated for president without the aid of New York and the Ryans and Murphys have no strings on him.
The largest malt order house in Chicago will sell $75,000,000 worth of goods this year for cash. That represents a larger volume of mercantile business than is enjoyed by all of the merchants in one hundred inland towns. The daily mail averages 100,000 letters containing money and orders. If there was any sentiment in business, this money would be spent at home, but there is neither sentiment nor loyalty, and mail order houses continue to thrive.
The criticisms on school room sanitation offered by "Vagabond" in last night's paper are well stated, and his suggestions for relief are practical and should be adopted. The toilet rooms should be as near sanitary as it is possible to make them, and there is every reason why the windows should be screened. The school book question should also be investigated.
Governor Johnson of California, the running mate of Colonel Roosevelt, gave the Wisconsin branch of progressives to understand that there was no compromise. You can't be a republican and a national progressive at the same time; neither can you shout for La Follette and Roosevelt in the same breath! What will poor McGovern do?
Colonel Bryan proposes to camp on the trail of Colonel Roosevelt, in the coast states, and as he claims to be the discoverer of progressive reform and possesses a strong personality, he will find no trouble in gaining an audience. The merry scrap between the Roosevelt and democratic parties may result in helping Taft.
It is difficult to maintain fire at white heat, for any great length of time, and it is just as difficult to keep up enthusiasm for a party, which hasn't a log to stand on. This fact is already apparent, in the political game, now in progress, and it will develop, as time advances. "We want Teddy" don't represent much by the way of steady diet.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.

SPIRITUAL COURIERS.
When the news of the passing of General George W. Gordon of Memphis was wired to the country there were many sincere mourners.
None who have ever heard General Gordon's silver oratory will forget his fervid pleas for a united country.
He was a gallant Confederate officer, the idol of his soldiers. But when the war was over his was one of the first of all the voices eloquent for the Union.
He was a great friend of Grant and Sherman and of many of those against whom he fought in the time that tried men's souls.
Gordon's last words were these: "Send other couriers; those may be killed."
In his last moments the general's mind went back to the days of carnage, when the thunder clouds of black war burst over the head of the nation, and in spirit he accompanied again with Lee and Johnston and the comrades of the former days.
Therefore his order to "send other couriers."
He had learned in the grim theater of war that oftentimes couriers were cut off by the enemy and the messages lost.
More murmurings of a dying man? What do you or I know about the telepathy between minds here and now? Much less what do we know about the means of communication between kindred spirits here and yonder?
Is it only fancy that the spirit of Gordon, crossing the Potomac of Death, should be sending couriers forward to headquarters to appraise his old comrades of his near approach?
Who will say that on "fame's eternal camping ground" the couriers did not report?
It is not strange that on the eve of his departure a strong soul should feel the powerful impulse to send sure couriers in advance.
And so, my friends—
When the time of your departure and mine is come, when we shall have said goodbye to those on this bank of the river, what more natural than that we should seek to send quick couriers to those "we have loved and lost awhile" to tell them of our approach?

There used to be fun in the olden days.
When they had the real live campaign.
When the boys wore the oil cloth uniforms
And marched in the pouring rain.
When they carried the torches and gay flambeaux
And moved in a mighty line;
When the red fire burned for miles and miles
Down town when the nights were fine.
They marched in true military style
As though they were bound for war.
And nine out of ten didn't really know
Just what they were marching for.
They wore all the trappings of cut-throats.
With plumes in their bright tin hats.
One night they would march as Republicans
And the next night as Democrats.
The old brass band and the fife and drum
Made noises by night and day.
And the wives and sweethearts stood on the curb
To cheer them upon their way.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 13.—A "safety" rally in which 15,000 persons are expected to take part is to be held in Kansas City tomorrow under the auspices of the Santa Fe railroad. The purpose of the meeting is to impress upon the railroad employees the necessity of putting safety ahead of all other considerations. Lessons on how care will promote safety will be given by moving pictures, and speakers will tell the stories of the pictures and discuss the "safety habit." The Santa Fe road claims that as a result of its "safety habit" campaign the number of accidents to its employees has decreased 20 per cent within the last twelve months.

Jesus Saves

1st Epistle John 1:5-10.

"This then is the message which we have heard of Him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all.

6 If we say that we have fellowship with Him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth.
7 But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin.
8 If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.
9 If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.
10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us.

10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us.

Fads and Fashion

It may seem a trifle premature to talk about furs, but, although the weather is still quite summery and there is promise that the autumn will be pleasant and warm this year, the large shops have already begun to display fur garments of every description and even of the regular winter season. So far as can be judged at this time there will be little new in the fur line during the coming season. Of novelty furs there is so far but a single achievement which deserves mention, the chinchilla squirrel. This is a gray squirrel so treated, and tipped that it has the softness and much of the silvery coloring of chinchilla. It seems safe to predict that it will become quite popular.

The French designers of small furs have sent over charming sets in this fur combined with gray silk or velvet or used alone, and it is also being used on coats and frocks, though it is not cheap enough to be used lavishly by the crowd or to be readily commonized.

Black and white furs are as popular as ever, and there are many very original models in ermine and black silk or velvet, in white and black fox, in broadtail or caracul, ermine, etc. Some of the best looking sets shown at the recent openings were in ermine or white fox combined with a heavy, soft black taffeta.

Muffs are of many shapes, but invariably of large size, some of the fox muffs being almost enormous. There are some muffs which are bag-shaped, but although they are undoubtedly practical, they are not very ornamental. Fox of all kinds, is, as usual, a great favorite. The rarer kinds, such as silver fox, are so high priced that they are out of the question for most women, but luckily there are other varieties almost as beautiful though not so rare. Sitka fox tipped to look like silver fox is extremely handsome, and in this day when practically all furs are dyed more or less the old prejudice against the dyed and novel effects has passed. A set of the silver-tipped Sitka made up with a deep grayish brown velvet that toned in perfectly with the fur was one of the most attractive offerings in small furs in one of the shops, and there was also a stunning novelty in white fox and fisher that won great admiration.

Fur coats are on view in all the familiar shapes of last season, but among the imported models there are some new things, and probably as the season advances there will be many others. One bears a good deal about experiments with half-length fur coats and boleros and Russian and Directorate cuts, but after all the fanciful fur coat can only be indulged in by the few. The average woman who spends money for a good fur coat wants something that will be serviceable for many seasons and buys conservatively in consequence.

Moleskins, which became one of the most popular coat furs last winter, seems headed for another successful season, and those who bought fearing that the fur might be merely the fad of a single season will have reason to congratulate themselves. Mole is to be very popular for small fur coats and for scarfs of the enveloping kind that can hardly be classed as "small."

Long draped coats of fine caracul are numerous, the drapery being disposed in long clinging lines and, thanks to the suppleness of the fur, having no hint of awkwardness. Pure white ermine collars are liked for these black fur coats and they often are small affairs turning away just a little from the throat or closing quite to the base of the throat.

The long separate coat of fur for late fall and winter will be the 52-inch type or longer. Side fastenings, deep collars and revers and deep cuffs will be evident. The use of contrasting furs is exemplified in nearly every model shown by the leading furriers of Paris, and the joining of the fur is made so as to give a striped effect. This is particularly attractive in moleskin.

The cutaway line characterizes the lower edge of long coats. A pannier hint is given by a curved, deep hem that shows fur in a different direction. Linings are just as beautiful as ever, some of the coats being lined with soft velvet to make the fur warmth doubly assured. Red lines are in vogue and are of plain colors. Heavy plain satins are practical and rich in the dark blues, greens, and golds. It is predicted that fur will be used a great deal for trimming purposes and in millinery during the coming season.

Fashion designers are strongly emphasizing the Directorate model in suits and gowns. There is a jauntiness about the cut, the lines and trimming that give just the "chic" to a costume. The combination of materials is most easily carried out because of the vest and patch pocket collar which characterize this style. Buttons play an important part, and the broad girdle and sash give opportunity for a color note that will contribute individuality and character to a gown or suit.

Generally the coat has a turned-back collar of satin or cloth. It can be quite flat or it can stand in a high stock effect, tied up with black ribbon or velvet, the knot or buttons are used, great emphasis being placed on round forms of brilliant bone, or brass balls, or ornamental styles of enamel and tortoise shell.

Directorate coat will be extremely popular during the coming season. Some of the models have a flaring coat and others are close fitting; but there seems to be no doubt that both coats and skirts will show decidedly more fullness this season, although the silhouette will remain practically unchanged. In the skirts these close, long lines are adhered to, although breaking away from the contracted line is noticeable in a number of skirts which show a fullness at the bottom, obtained by using a series of pleats at the side set in a little above the hem.

Nearly every skirt embodies the pannier drapery in some way. Some are draped in scant folds, while others of very full, thin material, including the chiffons and nets, have the drapery laid on in full pleats, or with rows of shirring at the waist line. There is a tendency to cling to the high-waisted garments, although the normal waistline seems to be coming into its own again. The Directorate coat is varied in many ways. Some show the high waist line, others are cut away very sharply, and others have very broad back, semi-fitting and ending in a deep curved line.

Some of the new afternoon dresses show pleatings beneath pincushion effects, and they emphasize the Japanese note. They are made of rich brocades, metal laces, opingle and velvets.

White satin hats are very smart. They are trimmed with flat bows of black velvet or aigrettes.

F. W. COON MEETS WITH AN ACCIDENT

Well Known Edgerton Man Has Arm Fractured While Cranking Auto. But is Able to Leave for Colorado.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, Sept. 13.—F. W. Coon, editor of the Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter, met with an accident yesterday which resulted in fracturing a bone in the lower right arm. He was cranking his auto and in the kick back the crank hit his arm with the above result. Accompanied by Dr. McChesney, Mr. Coon went to Janesville by auto where Dr. Munn of that city reduced the fracture. This morning Mr. Coon was able to start on a trip to Colorado to be present during the fruit harvest which has just started on the Will-Billa ranch of D. F. Hedges, son-in-law of Mr. Coon. J. H. Coon of Milton, a brother, left for that place at the same time. They will be absent several weeks.

Band Concert.

Following is the program to be rendered at Saturday night's open air band concert:

1—March—Reeves.

2—A Summer Dream.

3—Popular Medley.

4—Hogster Slide.

5—Orpheus—Overture.

6—Beauties Chorus Waltz.

7—Selection from Gay New York.

8—March—Repton.

Edgerton News Notes.

C. A. Fritzke and Charley Bowen left last night for Milwaukee to attend the state fair.

Miss Annice Hummel, who for the past year held a position at the Carlton hotel, has resigned, and left yesterday for her home in Delavan.

T. H. Swift, editor of the Watertown Leader, and in years gone by a practicing attorney in Edgerton, was here yesterday calling on old-time friends.

C. G. Biederman is out with a five-passenger Oakland car.

Another game of baseball will be played Sunday afternoon at the Lake House, Lake Koshkonong, between the Regulars of this city and the Newville team.

Miss Nellie Bentley will attend the Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., the coming year. Her class in violin at Stoughton will be taken by Miss Wilma Soverhill of Janesville.

GOVERNMENT READY FOR REAPER PROBE

Evidence to be Taken in Suit Against International Harvester Company Next Monday.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 13.—The Government will begin taking of evidence in this city next Monday against the International Harvester Company, which is charged in a dissolution suit filed last May in St. Paul with violating the Sherman anti-trust act. Robert S. Taylor of Duluth, has been appointed special master to take evidence. The testimony obtained by him will be reviewed by Judge Sanborn of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Government charges in its suit that the International Harvester company controls between 85 and 90 per cent of all the harvester machine business of the country, 75 per cent of the mowder business, 55 per cent of the bindery twine business, and 30 per cent of the sales of all kinds of farming implements.

The Government further alleges that the company not only has a virtual monopoly in the manufacture of all lines of agricultural implements, but that the agencies for distribution, the rental implement dealers and others are rapidly coming under the company's undisputed control. The Government expects to show that unless this control is prevented, and restrained the International Harvester Company will have complete, unchallenged dominion of every branch of trade and commerce in agricultural implements of all kinds.

"OLIVER TWIST" IN PICTURE FORM.

Nat C. Goodwin the American comedian, has headed down to posterity through the medium of moving pictures his unique conception of Fagin in "Oliver Twist."

Mr. Goodwin and an all star cast have been playing the characters of late in a revival of the dramatized novel in honor of the recent Dickens Centenary.

The entire pathetic story of Oliver is given from the time of his life in the workhouse, the horrors of Fagin's den, the happenings in the home of Mr. Brownlow, the murder of Nancy, Bill Sykes' harrowing from his own rope, and finally the horrible death of Fagin himself.

The play's atmosphere of brutality and crime is excellently portrayed and the speaker of the play on the screen finds himself involuntarily shuddering, so vivid are the scenes.

For the average person, the motion picture production gives a better conception of Dickens' fiction than would the more reading of a volume of "Oliver Twist." Mr. Goodwin's portrayal of Fagin is capable and graphic, affording a characteristic portrait of the unique old parasite. The part of Oliver is played delightfully by Vivian Burns, who replaced Marie Doro in Mr. Goodwin's company at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York City. Mr. Henry Mart, as Bill Sykes, gives an excellent interpretation of that difficult role and Miss Beatrice Moreland as his wife, Nan, also gives an excellent performance. The minor parts are all in the hands of capable people. The scenery and costumes being noted.

worthy for their accuracy of detail. These interesting pictures of Mr. Goodwin and his company will be shown in this city at the Myers Theatre on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 14 and 15. Matinee Saturday and Sunday.

FUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS.

The seat sale for "Bunty Pulls the Strings," the attraction at the Myers theatre opens Friday evening and Janesville will have an early opportunity to witness the much talked of comedy. The play is by Graham Moffat a Scotch actor, who, until the production of "Bunty" in London last July, was a quantity unknown, and unknown quantity, yet, who the morning after the first performance of "Bunty" arose peered through the London fog, and found his name on every lip, famous; classed with such names as W. S. Gilbert, J. M. Barrie, Richard Brinsley Sheridan and John Tobin, and his comedy, "Bunty Pulls the Strings," a classic. Today the name of Graham Moffat, the poor Scotch actor, is of international reputation, and "Bunty Pulls the Strings" will soon be tickling the ears of the people of every country where the theatre is known. Like "Pinafore" it is infectious and the people are contracting "Buntyitis" fever.

Like all great things, it is its very simplicity wherein lies its greatest charm, and it usually requires a second or third visit to acquire the beauty of its charm. "Bunty" is a diplomat, and a suffragette and unknown to her fellow beings, she pulls the strings that makes them dance to her every wish, and greatly to their satisfaction as well as her own.

"Graustark," which comes to the Myers theatre Thursday Sept. 19 matinee and evening is an adaptation from George Barr McCutcheon's vigorous

ELLEN DUNLOP IN "BUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS," AT MYERS THEATRE, TUESDAY, SEPT. 17.

The plot is laid in Edelweiss, Graustark, a mythical principality, where two young Americans are discovered following the beautiful unknown girl, who is in reality Princess Yette, the ruling sovereign. Lorry one of the Americans proves to be of great assistance to her both in America, where she first meets her, and then in her own country. That she would finally cast aside her royal rights if need be, to marry him, is nearly a foregone conclusion.

The play is one that strikes the happy chord in almost everybody. It is one where love and honor and bravery are rampant, where the atmosphere is pregnant with heroism, and where dishonor and trickery meet with defeat and disaster.

A man applied for a job in a nursery. Do you know anything about grafting?" he was asked. "Well I'll admit that I know something about it," said he. "I was county commissioner the year we let so many contracts for bridges."

A tramp applied to a Manhattan woman the other day for something to eat. "Poor man," she said, "have you a wife or family?" "Madam," he indignantly replied, "do you suppose that I would depend upon total strangers for something to eat if I had a wife?"

The city nephew was showing his country uncle the town from a seat in the open-air street car. "You don't often get a chance to ride on a street car, uncle?" said nephew. "No," said uncle. "I don't believe I've rid on a street car since we got our new automobile."

A man wished to have something original on his wife's headstone and hit upon, "Lord she was Thine." He had his own ideas of the size of the letters and the space between words, and gave instructions to the stone-mason. The latter carried them out all right, except he could not get the "o" in Thine.

A. E. Thomas the playwright, was dining with a party of men. Suddenly he rose from the table and walked over to another table occupied by a solitary person of dignified mien. In the course of time, he came back. "Apologies are due the company," he said, "but what would you? The person at the other table is a dramatic critic. One must live."

Two motorists were crawling up a highway where lately a friend (then riding with one of them) knew they had formerly gone at top speed. The friend asked why the car was run so slowly. "Why," explained the driver, "everybody's carrying home garden tools now, and you can't run over a man without risking a puncture."

At Belfast a football match was played between Ireland and Scotland. One of the home supporters, who was getting excited, kept shouting out: "Sit on 'em Ireland!" An old Scotchman in the crowd, unable to stand it any longer, cried out: "Ye might be able to sit on the leek, mon; an' mebbe on the rose, but I tell ye, mon, ye canna sit on the thistle."

Then He's a Genius. The man with a new idea is a crack until the idea succeeds.—Fud and Ned Wilson.

"Living Water"

He That Believeth on Me
Out of His Heart Shall Flow Rivers
of Living Water.—John 7:38.

GOD'S plan for the world is that it should be saved by Christian people, not by preachers, but by the great body of Christians. So we are given here a definition of the ideal Christian. Perhaps you have thought sometimes that you would like to know, in a few plain words, just what Jesus expects of you as a Christian. Here is an answer plain and simple. It was the time of the feast of the tabernacles. There was a vast number of people in Jerusalem, and they were gathered in the temple area. Above them stand the priests, pouring water out of large jars, to symbolize the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon Israel. Just then Jesus speaks, and amid the silence of the inattentive watching through his voice rings out: "If any man thirst let him come unto me, and drink; he that believeth on me, out of his heart shall flow rivers of living water." That packs into a sentence Jesus' ideal of what a true Christian down in this world should be, and may be.

Water is the essential of life. Absence of it means suffering, sickness and death. All the history of the world clusters about its water courses.

Harvest Should Be for All.

In the book of Joshua we read, "For Jordan overfloweth all its banks all the time of the harvest." When there was flood in the river, there was harvest in the land. Has there been a harvest in your life? A harvest of the fruits of the spirit—love, joy, peace, long suffering? "No," you say, "not much of a harvest." Perhaps none at all. Do you know why? Is it not because the Gospel of Jesus Christ has not filled your heart with its flood-tide of power? When the blessed stream has filled your being it must find an outlet, it produces a harvest. And it blesses all who come near it.

If you look at a chart showing the circulation of the blood, you will see a wonderful network of lines running in every direction, but they all converge in the great blood vessels that lead to and from the heart. And everywhere the blood goes there is life. Now turn to a map showing the water system of some great valley like the Mississippi. Here again you note a network of little streams and rivers, all converging in the great main artery, and that leading to the sea. And everywhere the water goes there is life.

Here is Jesus' picture of the Christian down in the world. As the red stream of life is sent out by the force pump of the heart to give beauty and health and strength to every part of the body, so out of the personality of the true believer shall go a flood-tide of power, bringing refreshing, and cleansing, and beauty and vigor everywhere within the circle of his life.

What a marvelous conception of the power of life! And how strikingly it describes Jesus' own life! But there is something more wonderful still. Jesus means that ideal to become real in you and in me. Perhaps you are thinking to yourself, "I wish I could live such a life, but it is not for me; I have no special talent or opportunities; and the strong tides of temptation at times sweep me off my feet; no, it is not for me." Yes it is for you if you will only yield yourself to the Master's influence.

Believe in Him, is the Secret.

St. John has a story in his gospel, in the fourth chapter, about a woman who seemed indeed a most unlikely instrument for the Master's purpose. She was a woman of no reputation, rather of bad reputation. She probably had no influence in her town. But she met Jesus at Jacob's well, and she listened to him and believed on him, and there lies the secret of what follows.

She went back to her village and commenced speaking about Jesus to those she knew. The result was startling. We are told in the simple language of the Gospel that "many believed on him because of the word of the woman." There is only one way to account for such results. Only the Holy Spirit speaking through her lips could have produced them. She had begun to drink of the water of life, of which Jesus had been speaking to her, and already the living water was flowing out to others.

The same Jesus wishes to do that with you, and far more if you will let him. Let me ask, why have we not all the same power for Christ that this woman had? Well, possibly some of us are like Nicodemus who came to Jesus by night. There is no power because of timidity. We are afraid of what people might say. And some of us may be like Lazarus was physically. We are tied up tight, hands and feet and face. We are the slaves of some sin, of some habit; there is something wrong. Now whatever it is, it is clogging up the spiritual channel which should bring supplies of living water from the great reservoir of the heart of Jesus. How shall we have power, abundant, life giving, sweetening our own lives and influencing other lives for good? The answer is easy to give, but it is no easy task to live up to it. Remove the obstruction that is clogging the channel of your spiritual life. Cease from that sin that is hindering the water of life from flowing into your heart. Then there shall come new life and new power.

Unworthy of the Wise.

SAYS WEALTH HURTS CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Presiding Elder Reynolds of Janesville Makes Charge at Wisconsin Conference of M. E. Church.

At the session yesterday of the Wisconsin conference of the M. E. church now being held in Milwaukee, Presiding Elder John Reynolds of the Janesville district charged increased wealth the large number of automobiles and the presence of nearby lakes as reasons for the falling off in church attendance.

Church members were being lured away by worldly attractions, he said, and were becoming forgetful of their sacred obligations. He made an appeal for better attendance and a realization of the responsibility which goes with church membership.

Rev. T. D. Williams, pastor of the local church, was appointed a member of the church board of examiners by Bishop Quale other members of the board are as follows: Rev. Richard Evans, Wausau; S. H. Anderson, Summerfield church, Milwaukee; W. P. Leek, Randolph; C. F. Spray, Whitewater; P. F. Stahl, Kenosha; Samuel Plantz, Appleton; E. Kolstad, Beloit; H. C. Logan, Beaver Dam; W. J. Corr, Juneau; Webster Miller, Milwaukee; James Churn of Oshkosh, and Elmer Perry of Milwaukee.

The Rev. J. H. Tippet, formerly pastor of the church here, now superintendent of the Appleton district submitted his report yesterday. Fifty-two ministers in his district who in the past year preached 7,000 sermons, conducted 2,500 prayer meetings and 1,000 revival meetings. He reported that Lawrence college, Appleton, has had a successful year and asked help in raising $100,000 to endow the college. The Appleton Deaconesses' hospital needs a new building and has paid $2,000 off on the debt on the hospital in the year past. He called attention to there being no pastor in Washington Island.

The Rev. Robert Ingraham of the Fond du Lac district and the Rev. John Reynolds of the Janesville district reported their districts to be in good financial condition.

DEMMIES HARMONIZE AFTER A TALK-FEST

Discussion Over Proxies And Endorsement of Committee Officers Named.

Difficulties arising at the opening of the meeting of the Democratic county committee at the court house yesterday afternoon were adjusted before the meeting was adjourned, and a county chairman, secretary and treasurer were elected before the session closed.

The difficulty arose over the proposal of certain members of the committee to put forth the name of J. A. Jensen of Edgerton for endorsement as a member of the state central committee of the party, but this proposal was withdrawn, and a compromise effected with the men who desired to endorse J. J. Cunningham of this city. By the compromise the Jensen supporters agreed not to present the resolution endorsing him.

The Cunningham men, who not only voice the proxies they held, and the matter was left to the candidates for state office, who select the state committee, at the meeting next week to select the committeemen from this district without endorsement from the committee. E. H. Connell, temporary chairman, was nominated as permanent county chairman, but declined, saying he was too busy with his campaign for sheriff, and he and Gardner Kavelage was nominated and unanimously elected county chairman. J. A. Jensen of Edgerton, was elected secretary and John C. Nichols of this city treasurer of the county committee. A rising vote of thanks was extended to W. B. Warr of this city, who leaves soon for Ludington, Mich., for his services as acting secretary, and a similar expression of appreciation was extended to Mr. Connell. Vacancies in the list of the county committee were filled, and members of the county committee from the towns and villages are: Avon, John Henry; Beloit, (town) P. H. Gallagher; Bradford, A. F. Lock; Center, Peter Barrett; Clinton, John Keough; Fulton, O. P. Marwin; Harmony, J. A. Decker; Janesville, (town) William Kennedy; Johnston, J. F. Ward; La Prairie, John McCann; Lima, W. Wickerman; Magnolia, John Corey; Milton, Frank R. Morris; Newark, Charles Brown; Plymouth, A. E. Kane; Porter, John Collins; Rock, Charles Griffin; Spring Valley, J. P. Ward; Turtle, John Patrick; Union, J. B. Curtis; Clinton village, A. Baldwin; Milton village, J. C. Goodrich; Orfordville village, T. E. Toilefsrud.

Separating Honey.

To obtain strained honey, separating the honey from the wax as it comes to us in the frame, place the frame in a bowl in the oven, just warm enough to melt the honey and wax; then remove the frame and let the honey stand until cold, when the wax may be skimmed off the top without any trouble.

BODY OF EMPEROR IS TAKEN TO THE TOMB

The funeral car and following it were the grand master of ceremonies bearing the departed monarch's sword and the master of the household carrying the imperial sword of state.

On each side of the casket walked high officials of the household carrying lighted candles. A watch fire had been lighted in the courtyard of the palace and flares set in braziers burned in each corner of the open space.

Profound silence prevailed as the casket was placed on the funeral car and all those gathered in the vicinity of the palace bowed their heads. On the top of the coffin rested a small white wooden tray on which the imperial sword was laid.

The doors of the car were shut and locked, the candles extinguished and torches lighted by those who were to march along. When all the arrangements had been completed Emperor Yoshihito and Empress Sadako and Prince Tokeda, representing the empress dowager, whose physicians prohibited her from taking part in the ceremonies and the princesses of the imperial family came through the hall, entered their carriages and started off alone for Aoyama, in order to be ready to receive the casket on its arrival there.

Average of Human Life.

Good authorities give the average duration of life as about 33 years. One-quarter of the people on the earth die before the age of six, one-half before the age of 16, and only about one person of each 100 born lives to the age of 65.

MUST FILE EXPENSE LISTS BY TOMORROW

All Candidates Must File Statements With County Clerk Not Later Than Saturday.

Statements of election expenses incurred since the primary elections must be filed by all candidates in Rock county with the county clerk not later than tomorrow. The corrupt practices act, under which the filing of the election statements is called for provides that the statements must be filed not later than the second Saturday after the primaries, nor more than ten days previous to that date. Up to today none of the candidates had filed their accounts, although the law provides that they must file a statement whether or not they have incurred any expenses. Statements will also be required of the candidates on or before the second Saturday in October, October 12, this year, and the last Saturday before election, or November 2.

HOGS IN ADVANCE; CATTLE TRADE WEAK

Today's Hog Receipts Sell At Slight Advance Over Yesterday White Cattle Have Poor Market.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—An advance of five cents over yesterday's average in the hog market failed to bring prices above the $9 mark. The cattle market had a poor day although receipts were light at 2,000 head. Trade was sluggish throughout the morning and few $10 prices were paid. Prospects of reaching the $11 figure for any large amount of the trade were materially diminished. Sheep continued steady with the same range of prices. Quotations follow:

Cattle—Receipts 2000; market dull, weak; beefs 5.75@10.90; Texas steers 4.75@6.40; western steers 5.75@9.30; stockers and feeders 4.25@7.00; cows and heifers 3.00@8.00; calves 8.50@11.50. ARREST WEALTHY CLUB MAN FOR ANNOYING WOMAN. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Sept. 13.—A warrant for the arrest of John B. Irwin, a wealthy club man of this city, has been issued upon the complaint of Mrs. George L. Barrowman, who charges that Irwin annoyed her by accosting her in the street and later by standing for an hour in front of her North Shore residence looking up at her windows.

Why, of course. "How to Attract the Birds" is the title of a new book by a well known author, with a profound knowledge of natural history. But why all this erudition? We always supposed there was just one simple method—to put salt on their tails.—News-Letter.

BRIBER SEEKS TO REGAIN LIBERTY. Rodney J. Diegle. As the result of a house cleaning in the Ohio legislature last year, Rodney J. Diegle, then sergeant-at-arms of the Ohio senate, and several others were sent to the penitentiary for legislative bribery. Now Diegle is trying to get out. He has issued a booklet giving reasons why he should be freed. He says he was unjustly convicted through false testimony of Burns' detectives. Diegle's friends will carry his case before the pardon board.

KADING RUNS AHEAD BY NARROW MARGIN

Doherty of La Crosse is Crowding Watertown Man in Democratic Race for Attorney General.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 13.—With Kading only 1,563 votes ahead on fifty-six counties the race on the democratic ticket between Doherty of La Crosse, and Kading of Watertown for attorney general promises to be a close one. There are fifteen counties still to be heard from. The indications are, however, that Kading has won. La Crosse county has not been officially reported and Doherty will have a big lead there, but it may not be sufficient to overcome Kading's margin. Jefferson county, the home of Kading, is already listed in the returns. From these fifty-nine counties Doherty received 17,822 votes, as compared to 19,355 for Kading. This gives Kading a lead of 1,533 votes.

The returns as received by the industrial commission from the different counties are as follows: County—Doherty, Kading. Ashland 363 159. Bayfield 4 38. Buffalo 100 85. Burnett 8 29. Calumet 251 164. ## The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"COME-BACK" PEOPLE.

"NOW run in any time and use the 'phone again. You know I'm perfectly willing to have you."

"That sounds like a very cordial invitation, doesn't it? And of course the woman who received it thanked its giver with equal cordiality. But after we had passed out of earshot, she turned to me and said, 'But just the same I shan't use that telephone unless I absolutely have to, as I did today.'"

"Why?" I inquired with some surprise, "she said she was perfectly willing."

"Yes," said the lady, "I know she did, but she's the kind of woman who says that sort of thing before you face her and then talks about you behind her back if you take her at her word. How do I know? Because I've heard her talk about other people that way. You want to be careful how you take favors from 'come-back' people."

Do you recognize the woman she was talking about? I don't mean in the flesh, but in the spirit. I am sure you must, because she is certainly a very common type.

Perhaps your neighbor belongs to this class, and neighbor-wise you borrow some coffee from her. She is delighted to lend it, she assures you. "Now don't hurry about returning it," she says, as you depart, "I have plenty, there's really no need of your returning it at all." For some reason you have difficulty in getting just the right quality to return to her, so you take her at her word and do not hurry yourself unduly about cancelling the loan.

Of course you feel quite safe in doing this because of her kindly reassurances. But it is a spurious safety. For your neighbor is going about the neighborhood saying how slack you are in returning things you have borrowed.

A friend of mine who is a member of this class of "come-back" people who offer favors, and then criticise you if you accept them, used to frequently urge me to make use of her automobile. Of course I never intended to accept, but one day stress of circumstances forced me to ask a small favor in this line. She granted it, but in such an ungracious manner that I would have given anything not to have asked. And she further came back by criticising my having done so, to our mutual friends. She did not, needless to say, tell them how eagerly she had urged me to "make use of my car any time at all, my dear."

To criticise a person for accepting a favor from you is ungracious under any circumstances, but to criticise anyone for accepting favors which you have deliberately lured them into asking is just a bit worse.

Of course there may be some kinds of two-facedness which are more despicable than this variety, but offhand I can't think of any.

Can you?

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

The Face and the Feelings

THE commuters of a small suburban town were waiting for the morning train to town. Having nothing better to do they studied some what critically a couple who had just joined the little crowd on the platform.

The man's countenance fairly shrieked aloud with ill-nature, irritability, grouches and all disagreeableness. "Speaking countenance," was no misnomer for that face, and what it told was certainly not pleasant to hear.

His wife had a forced, apologetic cheerfulness. She was evidently trying to bear up under the burden laid upon her and to make the best of it. "What must be the state of feelings inside of him to give a person a face like that?" asked one of the commuters of another.

What indeed, must be the state of feelings of any one who goes around with a face like that?

Think of living perpetually in a state of irritability and ill-nature and grouches! Think of making every word you say a growl or a snarl! Think of believing that everything about the house and the office is wrong, that the housekeeper is wasteful, the cook the worst ever known, the stenographer the most careless, the office boy the laziest! If the sun shines, the heat is awful; when it rains it's beastly to have to go about in the wet. Nothing is ever right. No doubt the last suburb where this man lived wasn't fit for a decent person to reside in. And the one he has come to will probably be still worse.

He is not the only man who has this outlook on life. And there are plenty of women just like him,—you have seen them. Their mouths turn down, and their face is all discontented lines, and they have a querulous, complaining voice.

Meantime, the sun shines, or the silver rain comes down; the stars gleam softly, or fleecy, joyous clouds send across the sky; flowers bloom, and babies show all their dimples when you chuck them under the chin; and there are hearty hand-clasps and loving greetings; and a thousand and one kindnesses are passed along of which you get your share. And lots of one find this a very agreeable world to live in despite the fact that cooks cook badly and stenographers make mistakes, and office boys are lazy.

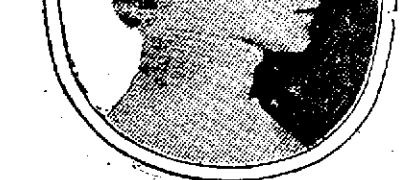

For these annoyances that happen along—and they will happen to all of us—will build into our character, if we will let them, patience and sympathy and the desire to help remedy mistakes and overcome ignorance and cure laziness.

And patience and sympathy and helpfulness and all such traits are much more desirable possessions than irritability and ill-nature and grouches. Life has many kinds of things to offer us. But what we take depends upon ourselves.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

A Cleveland councilman (called alderman in some cities) and bachelor, proposes an ordinance that will stop bridegroom hazing.

While one is tempted to suspect that the bachelor councilman is contemplating immediate matrimony (which he does not admit) and so is striving to protect himself from his many friends, one at the same time agrees heartily that the newly married should not be annoyed by the playful antics of rabid acquaintances.

Goodness knows, the newly married have troubles enough coming to "em without and assistance from the outside.

Sometimes the "hazing" is a harmless and good-natured affair, as happened to a certain young man who quietly took a wife a few weeks ago.

Being a popular young fellow, he had an idea of what might be coming to him if the day of his marriage was known. Therefore the wedding was quietly conducted at home with only the immediate relatives present, and the young people, without announcing any "at home" day, took up their residence in a suburban home where the car fare discourages frequent visits.

But the marriage soon became known (somebody always tells!) and when the young people, accompanied by the bride's mother, came into town to attend a dancing party, their friends were "laying" for them.

The bride was immediately appropriated by all the goodlooking young men in the hall. Not once during the evening was her husband permitted to dance with her or even get near her.

The bridegroom and mother-in-law were courteously but firmly conducted here and there until the groom had announced to each guest:

"I am married now. This is my mother-in-law. Everybody please pray for me."

After the ceremony the groom was not permitted to dance with anybody but the mother-in-law, and required to treat her in every respect as if he was delighted, while his friends stood around with sorrowful faces and made pitying remarks.

In due time the bride, and her mother were respectfully escorted home, but the groom was split away to a far-off land, where he was relieved of all his money and served with a supper of hamburger cheese and crumpets. There he heard condolences and was compelled to make a speech bewailing his unhappy lot while wailing an onion-soaked handkerchief, which caused most natural-looking tears to course down his cheeks.

When the last owl car had rattled its way home, the bridegroom was told that he might hic himself home.

It was only eight miles or so, and he was entirely cash-less, so he walked.

That last was the only thing that made the bride mad.

"I didn't mind the fun at the dance," she said. "And mamma didn't mind, either. She's the best kind of a 'good sport,' you know, so she just laughed at all their silly doings. I didn't care how much fun they poked at Harry, either, or what he said, because I knew he didn't mean it. And they could keep his old money. But to make my poor darling walk home like that after he was all tired out—I think it was a shame, and I won't speak to ONE of that bunch when I see any of them, so there!"

The KITCHEN CABINET

MANY families owe their prosperity as much to the carefulness of the housewife's management as to the activity of the husband.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Rub hinges with a feather dipped in oil and they will not squeak.

A slice of lemon or a sprig of parsley eaten after onions will destroy the odor.

Pennyroyal will keep off mosquitoes.

Use a clothes pin to handle a screw when putting it into hard wood.

To freshen the air in a sick room, put a few drops of oil of lavender into hot water. It leaves a most agreeable odor.

Place a piece of glass over the cook book when using it. It serves two purposes, holds the book open and keeps it clean.

To save a child from slipping in the bath tub, lay a Turkish towel in the bottom of the tub.

The moment you are prompted to rub your eyes, that moment stop using them.

When making cream of tomato soup, add the hot tomatoes to the milk instead of milk to the tomatoes, as it is not so apt to curdle.

When camping, and a rolling pin is needed, a large round bottle serves very well.

Do not try to test mushrooms for a dark color with a silver spoon, for it is not a good test for a poisonous variety.

Clean the meat chopper by running dry bread or crackers through it.

Fried apples with fried onions, both cooked together, are excellent with pork chops.

To remove stains of iodine from the hands, use ammonia.

Keep the fingers covered with salt when cleaning a fowl, as it prevents the fingers from slipping.

Ivory is cleaned with lemon and salt; afterwards wash in soap suds.

To improve tough meat, rub it well with a cut lemon. This acid softens the fibers.

When a loaf of bread has become stale, dip it in water and place in a paper bag in a hot oven.

When picking flowers in the woods, provide yourself with a paper bag to put them in. Fold over the top to keep them from the air, and they will be fresh when you arrive at home.

THE MEAT QUESTION.

"Meat man should have—once a day is really enough, twice a day at most. The naturalist will tell you that the teeth of animals are adapted to masticate the kind of food which is best for them. Man has been provided with an outfit of teeth which will grind all kinds of food, and therefore he should subsist upon a mixed diet." A reader sends me a clipping from the Ladies' World containing this statement by a physician, asking whether this is true. No better authority can be quoted than Huxley, who shows in his "Man's Place in Nature," from comparative anatomy, that the anthropoid apes are undoubtedly vegetarians. The formation of their entire bony structure, teeth included, is almost identical with man's. The alimentary canal of these vegetable feeders is also identical with man's, so that comparative anatomy furnishes a strong argument against the use of flesh. Still, there is nothing so convincing as actual test, and in that the evidence is overwhelming, as I have already pointed out.

Heart and Home Problems

by MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—When a girl is in love with one certain fellow and would like to keep company with him, is it proper for her to write him, note telling him she would like him to call on her? Or how is the best way to do so? Is it improper to flirt and spoon with boys? As I am not allowed to receive answers at my home, please forward answer to my friend.

Indeed, Helen, I will not be a party to anything clandestine, and so I am answering your letter in the paper instead of sending the answer in care of your friend. A young girl who is ashamed to have her parents see her mail is on the bad road, I assure you. It would be very improper for you to write to the boy and ask him to call on you. Any boy worth knowing would want nothing to do with you if you made advances on him. If you wish to get acquainted with a certain boy, have him introduced to you by somebody who knows both of you, and then just be friendly unless he shows you that he honorably loves you and wants to marry you.

Boys have no respect for girls who flirt and spoon with them. They talk about such girls and laugh at them when the girls are not around.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) I am a boy 12 years old, 5 ft high, weigh 80 pounds. Am I well built? (2) I am in the fifth grade. Is my writing good? Am I in the right grade? (3) How can I get rid of blackheads? (4) How can I get grease spots off my trousers? (5) I don't smoke, chew, drink anything alcoholic or swear. Am I a good boy?

(1) Yes. (2) Yes to both. (3) Exercise until you perspire well. Take a bath every day and wash your face clean with good soap and water at least twice a day. (4) Eat plenty of fruits and vegetables. Drink lots of milk and water. (5) Put a piece of blotting paper under spot, another piece on top of spot; then press with a warm (not hot) iron. (6) I believe you are my boy. Just add good thoughts and deeds to your good habits and you will make a fine man.

If the girl who is sick and whose mother will not allow her to stay home, will send her full address to Mrs. Thompson, letters from people who are willing to give her a home will be forwarded to her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a mother of ten children and am only 34 years old. (1) The height of my oldest son is six feet four inches; he is only 18 years old. What do you think of him? (2) What can you tell me about the seventh son? straight? (3) What is a good remedy for corns and boils?

(1) Your son is remarkably tall for his age. I hope he will take good care to have a splendid healthy body and a fine clean mind. He will then make a magnificent man. (2) The seventh son and the seventh daughter "straight" are supposed to have "second sight." (3) For corns, tie a bit of banana skin with soft side against corn. Put on fresh piece every day, and cut off the hard skin of corn as soon as the soreness goes out. If you have boils, your blood probably is out of condition. You had better consult a doctor.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—My husband and I cannot get along. He is so mean. He abuses me in company and I am tired of it. I don't love him

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

by Henrietta D. Grauel

THE following recipes are donations from daily readers of this column. Each one is some person's favorite and all of them have been tried by the writer and found practical and economical.

1—"Ham pie is my favorite dish. Cover bottom of casserole with bits of buttered bread. Dice and sprinkle on enough ham to cover the bread. On this lay slices of tomatoes that have been skinned and freed from seeds, add another sprinkling of ham and more buttered bread. Cover and cook in a moderate oven until the tomatoes are done; remove cover and brown."

2—"Veal croquettes—Heat one cup of milk in a double boiler, thicken with a tablespoon of flour blended with a tablespoon of butter. When very thick and smooth add one pint of minced, cold cooked veal, baked, preferred, and well seasoned with salt and pepper, and a little onion juice if you approve of this flavor. Form into croquettes, bread and egg and bread again and fry in deep fat."

This one is the simplest recipe I have ever received for croquette making. Set it is the base of every form of this "made-over" dish."

3—"Macaroni with meat—Cook the macaroni without breaking the long pipes. Line a deep buttered baking dish with it by coiling it around, leaving a well in the center.

"Make a forcemeat of cold chicken and cold veal or chicken, veal and ham chopped fine. Season highly and add enough cream sauce to bind the mixture well together. Fill the macaroni mold with this and steam, or bake, until it is firm. Cheese may be grated over the top and nicely browned. Tomato sauce is excellent to serve with it."

Ruskin has said that "Economy no more means saving than it does spending money. It means the administration of a house; its stewardship, both saving and spending of money, time and anything else to the best advantage. The clearest definition of economy, public or private means the wise management of labor, and it means this in three senses; apply your labor rationally, preserve it, produce carefully and use its products seasonably."

These next suggestions are so practical that it might seem as though the writer had read her Ruskin to some purpose.

I can only spend four dollars a week for nourishment for my family of three adults, which is less than sixty cents a day. I send six dinner menus and you will see how I manage to have meat once a day.

No. 1—Shinbone of beef simmered

three hours in a stew pan with little water. When tender add diced carrots, potatoes, turnips and one large onion and simmer another hour. Remove the meat, thicken the liquor on the vegetables.

No. 2—Mutton broth, made from scrag end of mutton and a cup of pearl barley. There is as much nutriment in the coarse cut as in the fine chop and it can be cooked tender. With this I serve boiled, buttered cabbage and steamed turnips.

No. 3—Beefsteak puddings—Make a sweet, flour and water crust, fill with chopped beef, season with minced onion, salt and pepper. Add boiling water, cover with an upper crust and bake forty minutes; bake potatoes and apples at same time.

No. 4—Veal curry with rice—Dice meat from leg of veal and simmer it in milk until tender. Thicken with flour, season with salt and curry powder.

No. 5—Sheep's kidney stewed; string beans, potatoes; apple dumplings.

No. 6—Fish: potatoes, tomatoes and creamed rapices. We have soup almost every day; I find potato, celery, bean, tomato and these containing rice or barley are best for our use. Two years ago I was not a "good cook" but thanks to this column and other newspaper help I believe I can now claim to be at least a practical one.

SHE'S DOING GREAT WORK AT MANILA

Dr. Rebecca Parrish.

Dr. Rebecca Parrish of Manila, Philippine Islands, is in America on an eighteen months' vacation from her duties as superintendent of the hospital for Filipino women and children in the Methodist mission at Manila. Dr. Parrish has been in the Philippines six years and during that time has built up the wonderful work the mission is now conducting among the Filipinos in sanitation and hygienic education.

SMART SUIT ON PRACTICAL LINES

The material of this walking suit is blue serge. Black satin binding borders the coat and trims the skirt. Blue and white striped pique is used for the vest collar and cuffs. Tiny blue glass buttons fasten the vest. Black satin-covered button and loop finish the overlapping tab at the front.

25 CENT "DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF-GROWS HAIR

Don't Pay 50 Cents for Worthless Hair Tonic—Use Old, Reliable, Harmless "Danderine"—Get Results. No Disappointment.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff; that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

YOU can always buy paint for a less price than Devoe Lead and Zinc; don't do it; save your money. Less price probably means less value; short measure, maybe, or cheap quality. "Cheap" paint takes more gallons than Devoe; and that means more hours' work. The cost of painting is by the gallon; poor paint costs most, because most gallons.

Better get Devoe Lead and Zinc.

Mrs. P. Mau and daughter, Frances, were called to Broadhead Wednesday, by the sickness of Mrs. Gustave Postle.

Little Leonard Woodstock, who has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harnack, returned home Tuesday.

P. Mau is entertaining a brother, from Iowa.

Miss Mildred Mayes spent Saturday afternoon with Miss Beulah Cole. Misses Frieda Postle and Ruth Acheson, spent Tuesday evening with Minnie and Cora Bishop.

A number from here are attending the Green county fair, at Monroe, this week.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN
REGULATES STOMACH

Time! In Five Minutes the Gas, Sourness, Heartburn and Indigestion Misery is Gone.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic get this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely, quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Diapepsin is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

SUNDAY RALLY DAY FOR PRESBYTERIANS

Each Member of Congregation Of First Church Expected To Be Present And Give Response

First Presbyterian church holds its annual congregational rally next Sunday, and every member who can attend is expected to be present and respond to the roll call. As many as possible are requested to respond with a few remarks or songs. Invitations have been extended to every member and their families, and if they know of members who are out of town or ill they have been asked to write them or visit them in person, and obtain a letter which can be read for them when their names are called.

Rev. J. W. Laughlin, pastor of the church, in his personal letter to all the parishioners said, "There is quite a disposition on the part of the membership to be a little more active than usual in the church work this fall. It would be a source of infinite satisfaction to know that every one from the youngest to the oldest was determined to allow no trivial or imaginary service to keep him from the Sunday services."

Heddles, Dennis Hayes and J. G. Rexford. Much enthusiasm was shown at last evening's meeting and it is confidently expected that the citizens of Janesville, will be able to raise the $10,000 required to carry out the hospital plans. Committees will be appointed at Monday evening's meeting to begin the work of soliciting and raising funds.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

MONEY.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

MONEY is a medium of exchange which sometimes serves very successfully as a substitute for brains, culture and social standing.

There are two kinds of money—hard and soft, and nobody ever gets enough of either.

Hard money is more durable than soft, and lasts longer, as the latter is usually inherited and then blown in on racing cars and other foolhardy schemes.

Money will land a man up among the leaders if he has anything to go with it, but many a youthful scion has had the plum tree shaken upon him and discovered that he could buy everything except natural intelligence.

Thousands of people scrimp and scrape and sweat through early life in order to land on Easy street, and when they get there find it harder to let loose of a dime than it used to be of a dollar. Economy is a good thing, but when it makes a man so tight that he utters a morbid squeak on being separated from a Lincoln penny it is a doubtful asset in any home.

Money and happiness don't always drive double. An income of $25,000 a year is often as troublesome as one of $2,500. Many a couple has moved on to the boulevard and taken suspicion, jealousies and heartaches with them, and then looked back with envy on $18 a week in the cottage on a side street.

Since people began to measure everything in money, from character to qualification for office, there is a tendency to hang price figures on the simple, old-fashioned virtues. Not enough money has yet been coined, however, to clothe the crook or the cauld with the respect of simple folk who put decency above dollars.

Paper money is the most popular kind now in use, owing to the fact that it is easiest to burn. So much money is being burned daily on highballs and Paris gowns that very little of the surplus gets into model tenement houses. It is true that money makes the mare go—not infrequently with head up and tail over the dashboard.

MILTON PASTOR IS POPULAR LECTURER

Dr. Randolph Receives High Praise At Places Where He Has Spoken During Past Summer.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton, Sept. 13.—The many friends of Pastor Randolph, who have had the delightful experience of listening to his popular lectures are greatly pleased with his success in other sections. This summer he has lectured at Chautauquas at Camp Cleghorn, Wis., Calina, Ohio, and Orchard Island, Ohio. At all of these places the management expressed themselves as greatly pleased and asked him to return next summer, although he has about twenty engagements for next season; and he will also appear on tour, lecturing, during this fall and winter. The following extracts from letters show what others think:

W. S. Frasier, President of Camp Cleghorn Assembly, says: The lectures were earnest, forceful, eloquent, and gave universal satisfaction. We are hoping to have Mr. Randolph with us another season.

Milton W. Brown, manager of the Celina Chautauqua, Ohio, wrote to Dr. Randolph: Your lecture was as well received as any on our program this year. Your handling of the subject was in every way masterly. You may be sure that we shall look forward to having you on our program next year. Considering that the Celina Chautauqua program is regarded as one of the ten strongest in America, you may well feel that you have measured up to the best traditions of the American platform.

Tobacco harvest is over, the crop is unusually good and the farmers have nearly all sold for a very good price.

TOBACCO HARVEST NEARLY COMPLETED

Except For Latest Crops 1912 Leaf Is Now Curing in the Sheds—Fine Texture Predicted.

This has been the heavy week of the tobacco harvest with the growers of this state and the work has been crowding so hard that every bit of additional help available has been pressed into service with long hours in order to properly care for the crop, says the Edgerton Reporter.

The extremely hot weather of the past two weeks has brought on the ripening so rapidly that it is with the utmost difficulty that growers have been able to keep pace with the work at hand. As the greater part of the crop in this locality is under contract at fancy prices, every load harvested beyond the reach of hail, frost or storms means dollars the farmer can safely count on, hence his anxiety to see his crop secured before any calamity might overtake it. The early portion of the crop is now pretty generally secured.

The warm days following have promoted rapid curing so that already some idea of the color and texture of the cured leaf may be determined, and it promises to yield some of the brightest tobacco the state has seen in years. This is most pleasing news to the dealers who have wagered their money that the crop would eventually meet their expectations of

As it is in Life. No one ever has the choice of the very best. Most things, humanly speaking, are simply the choice of one good thing and one not so good.

Easy to Get Rid of Corns This Way

"GETS-IT," the New Corn Cure. Guaranteed.

"Corns Gone! GETS-IT Got 'Em!"

"GETS-IT" is the new-plant corn cure that will surely surprise you the very first time you use it. It is so simple, painless, quick and sure in its action. It shrivels up the corn, wart, callous or bunion, separates them from the true flesh, the corn comes off, and there you are, with feet that feel positively glorious; corns once more as they used to be in your "barefoot days!"

The most remarkable feature is that "GETS-IT" does not harm or turn raw the healthy flesh as other preparations do. It is as safe as water. No more plasters, bandages, or salves.

"GETS-IT" is sold at drug stores at 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sold in Janesville by McCue & Biss, Smith Drug Co., J. P. Baker & Son, Reliable Drug Co.

Rich Men's Children

By Ceraldine Bonner

Author of "The Phoenix"
"Ransom Trap," etc.

Illustrations by Don J. Levin

Copyright 1912 by the Bonner-McNeill Co.

She spoke with a hard determination, with something of an inflexible, unrelenting positiveness, that was very unusual in her, which surprised and, for the moment, silenced her father. It rose from a source of conviction deeper than the surface emotions of likes and dislikes, of loves and hates, of personal satisfactions and disappointments. At the core of her being, with roots extending through all the ramifications of her mental and moral nature, was a belief in the inviolability of the marriage tie. It was a conviction founded on neither tradition, nor reason, nor expediency, a thing of impulse, of sex, an hereditary instinct inherited from generations of virtuous women, who, in the days of their defenselessness, as in the days of their supremacy, knew that the most sacred possessions of their lives—their husbands, their children, their homes—rested on its stability. All the small, individual preoccupations of her love for Dominick, her pity for his sufferings, were swept aside by this greater feeling that she did not understand or reason about. She obeyed an instinct, elemental as the instinct of motherhood, when she refused to admit his right to break the bond he had contracted.

Her father stared at her for the moment, chilled by a sense of unfamiliarity in her sudden assumption of an attitude of challenge and authority. He had often heard her inveigh against the divorces so lightly obtained in the world about them. He had thought it one of those pretty ornamental prejudices of hers, that so gracefully adorned her youth and that he liked her to have when they did not interfere with anything of importance. Now, set up like a barrier in the path, she stopped before this one particular prejudice, perplexed at its sudden intrusion, unwilling to believe that it was not a frail, temporary obstruction to be put gently aside.

"Now listen, honey," said he persuasively, "that's all very well. I've got no right to interfere, and neither will I admit, has anybody. But sometimes you have to push away these little rights and polite customs. They're very nice for every-day use, but they're not for big occasions. I suppose the Good Samaritan didn't really have any right to stop and bind up the wounds of the man he found by the wayside. But I guess the feller he bound up was mighty glad that the Samaritan didn't have such a respect for etiquette and wait till he'd found somebody to introduce them."

"Oh, papa, that was different. Don't confuse me and make me seem a fool. I can't talk like you. I can't express it all clearly and shortly. I only know it's wrong; it's a sin. I wouldn't marry Dominick Ryan if he was divorced that way if it killed me to give him up."

"So if the woman voluntarily took the money and went away and got Dominick to grant her the divorce, Dominick being, as we know, a man of good record and spotless honor, you'd refuse to marry him?"

"I would, certainly I would. It would be perfectly impossible for me to marry him under those circumstances. I should consider I was committing a sin, a particularly horrible and unforgivable sin."

"See here now, Rosey, just listen to me for a minute. Do you know what Dominick Ryan's marriage is? I don't suppose you do. But you do know that he married his mistress, a woman who lived with him eight months before he made her his wife. She wasn't an innocent young girl by any means. She knew all right where she was going. She established that relation with him with the intention of marrying him. She's a damned smart woman, and a damned unscrupulous one. That's not the kind of woman a man feels any particular respect for, or that a girl like you'd give a lot of sympathy to, is it?"

"I don't see that that would make any difference," she said. "I'm not thinking of her character, I'm thinking of her rights."

"And don't her character and her rights sort of dovetail into each other?"

"No, I don't see that they do. The law's above the character, or the person. It's the law, without any question of the man or the woman."

"Oh, Rosey, dear, you're talking like a book, not like a girl who's got to live in a world with ordinary people in modern times. This woman, that you're arguing about as if she was the mother of the Gracchi, hasn't got any more morality or principle than you could put on the point of a pin."

"She's been quite good and proper since her marriage."

"Well, now, let's leave her and look at Dominick's side. He marries her honorably and lives with her for nearly three years. Every semblance of affection that he had for her gets rubbed off in those three years, every illusion goes. He's tied to a woman that he can't stand. He went up to Antelope that time because they'd had some sort of a scrap and he felt he couldn't breathe in the same house with her. He told me himself that they'd not lived as man and wife for nearly a year. Now, I don't know what you're going to say, but I think to keep on living in that state is all wrong. I'll borrow your expression, I think it's a sin."

"She answered doggedly:

"It's awful, but she's his wife. Oh, if you'd seen her face when she talked to me, her thin, mean, common face, all painted and powdered and so miserable!"

He thought she was wavering, that he saw in this unreasonable, illogical dodging of the point at issue a sign of defeat, and he pushed his advantage.

"And you—a girl of heart and feeling like you—would condemn that man and woman to go on living that life, that useless, purposeless life? I can't understand it. What good comes of it? What's the necessity for it? Do you realize what a man Dominick might be if he was married to the right woman, and had a decent home where he could live like a Christian? Why, he'd be a different creature. He'd have a future. He'd make his place in the community. All the world would be before him, and he'd mount up to where he belongs. And what is he now? Nothing. All the best in him's paralyzed by this hell of a box he's got himself into. The man's just withering up with despair."

It was almost too much. For a moment she did not answer, then said in a small voice like a child's:

"You're making this very hard for me, papa."

"My God, Rosey," he cried, exasperated, "you're making it hard for yourself. It's you with your cast-iron prejudices, and your obstinacy, who are making it hard."

"Well, I've got them," she said, rising to her feet. "I've got them, and they'll stay with me till I die. Nothing's going to change me in this. I can't argue and reason about them. They're part of me."

She approached the mantelpiece, and, leaning a hand on it, looked down at the fire. The light gilded the front of her dress and played on her face, down-drooped and full of stern decision.

"It's quite true," she said slowly, "that I love Dominick. I love him with the best I've got. It's true that I would like to be his wife. It would be a wonderful happiness. But I can't have it, and so there's no good thinking about it, or trying to bring it about. It can't be, and we—you too, papa—must give it up."

He pressed himself back in his chair, looking at her with lowering, somber disapprobation—a look he had seldom had cause to level at his daughter.

"So you're going to condemn this poor devil, who loves you and whom you say you love, to a future that's going to kill any hope in him? You're going to say to him: 'You can be free, and make something of your life, and have the woman you want for your wife, but I forbid all that, and I'm going to send you back to prison.' I can't seem to believe that it's my Rosey who's saying that, and who's so hard and inhuman."

Rose turned from the fire. He noted an expression almost of austerity on her face that was as new to him as the revelation of obstinacy and indifference to his will she had shown tonight.

"Papa, you don't understand what I feel. It's not what you want, or what I want, or what Dominick wants. It's not what's going to please us and make us comfortable and happy. It's something that's much more important than that. I can't make Dominick happy and let him make his life a success at the expense of that woman."

an. I can't take him out of prison, as you call it, because he's got a responsibility in the prison, that he voluntarily took on himself, and that he's got to stand by. A man can't stay by his marriage only as long as it's pleasant. He can't throw down the woman he's made his wife just because he finds he doesn't like her. If she's been disagreeable that's a misfortune, but it doesn't liberate him from the promises he's made."

"Then you think when a man like Dominick Ryan, hardly more than a boy, makes a mistake that ruins his life, he's got to stay by it?"

"Neither You Nor Anyone Else Had a Right to Interfere."

"Yes, he must. He's given a solemn promise. He must keep it. Mistake or sin doesn't matter."

The old man was silent. He had presented his case as strongly and persuasively as he knew how, and he had lost it. There was no longer any use in arguing with that unshakable feminine obstinacy, rooted, not in reason but in something rock-like, off which the arguments of reason harmlessly glanced. He had a dim, realizing sense that at the bottom of the woman's illogical, whim-driven nature, there was that indestructible foundation of blind, governing instincts, and that in them lay her power.

"I guess that lets me out," he said, turning to knock off the long ash on his cigar. "I guess there's no use, Rosey, for you and me to try to come to an agreement on this matter."

"No, there isn't. And don't let's talk about it any more," she turned from the fire and came toward him. "But you must promise me one thing—that that woman is to be let alone, that no one—you or anyone you have any control over—makes any more offers of money to her."

She came to a stand beside his chair. He wanted to hold out his hand to her as was his custom when she stood near him, but he was afraid that she might not take it.

"Yes, I can promise that," he said. "I'll not offer her any more money. I don't want to see her again, God knows."

It was an easier promise to make than Rose guessed. The old man, under an air of mild concurrence in her demands, experienced a sensation of cynical amusement at the thought that the first move for a reopening of negotiations must come from Berny.

"Oh, yes, I'll promise that," he said amicably. "You needn't be afraid that I'm going to go on offering her a fortune. The thing's been done, the woman's refused it, and there it stands. I've no desire to open it again."

She leaned down to take his hand. He relinquished it to her with an immense lightning of his heart, and peace fell on him as he felt her rub her cheek against his knuckles.

"So you're not mad at the old man, after all?" he said, almost shyly.

"No," she murmured, "not at him. I was angry at what he was doing."

It was a subtly feminine way of getting round the delicate points of the situation—that inconsistently feminine way which separates judgment of the individual from judgment of his acts. But it relieved the Bonanza King of the heaviest weight that had lain upon him for many years, and, for once, he gave thanks for the irrationality of women.

"Well, good night, honey," he said. "No matter what crazy notions you've got, you're the old man's girl, all right."

She kissed him.

"And you won't forget your promise?" he murmured.

"Of course not," he said stoutly, not sure just what she was implying.

"Any promise I make to you stands put till the Day of Judgment. Good night."

When she left him, he lit another cigar, sank lower in his chair and stared at the fire.

It was a deadlock. In his helplessness, the enraged helplessness of the man who had ridden triumphantly over all obstacles that fate had set in his path, his prevailing thought was how much he would like to kill Berny. She had done all this. This viper of a woman, the kind to tread on if she raised her head, had baffled and beaten them all. He could not murder her, but he thought with grim lips of how he could crush and grind her down and let her feel how heavy Bill Cannon's hand could be.

It seemed for the moment as if everything were over. They had reached a place where a blank wall stretched across the road. Berny's refusing the money had been a serious obstacle, but not an unconquerable one. Rose tonight had given the whole plot its death blow. With lowering brows he puffed at his cigar, groping in his mind for some way that might yet be tried. He could not brook the thought of defeat. And yet the more he meditated the more impregnable and unscalable appeared the wall that stretched across the way.

Judgment and Mercy. Matt. xi:20-30. Golden Text—Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Matt. xi:28.

(1) Verse 20—What is the different degree of blameworthiness to one who rejects the gospel after having had many opportunities to accept and one who rejects it having had but few opportunities?

(2) Verse 21—If two sinners, practically duplicates of each other, hear the gospel and the one under very great influence accepts, while the other under a less influence rejects, should we blame the latter for rejecting or the influence for being too weak? Why?

(3) What "mighty works," if any, are recorded as having been done in Chorazin?

(4) What proportion of the "works" and sayings of Jesus would you say we have recorded in the four gospels?

(5) What amount of blame must we give to Tyre and Sidon for not repenting now we know they would have done so if the influences had been stronger?

(6) Verse 22—Will there be degrees of punishments for the wicked and degrees of rewards for the good in the future state? Why?

(7) Verses 23-24—What would you say is the literal meaning of the doom which Jesus pronounces upon Capernaum?

(8) Why was Sodom, that very wicked city, desecrating of less blame than Capernaum?

(9) Which entails the greater guilt, and why, the degree of sin or the degree of resistance of salvation? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(10) What had Jesus done in Capernaum which laid that city under such a debt of obligation?

(11) When do you think the "day of judgment" will be?

(12) Verses 25-26—What class of people were they in that day which most readily accepted the story of the gospel?

(13) What class of men and women, for the most part, were the special friends of Jesus?

(14) In what way does God hide spiritual truth from "the wise and prudent" and reveal it "unto babes?"

(15) Why is it that a proud educated man or a proud rich man cannot perceive spiritual truth?

(16) What class of persons are those who see, hear and obey God?

(17) Verse 27—Upon whom does our eternal salvation and our communion with God depend? Why?

(18) Verses 28-30—Who are the burdened and heavy laden to whom this invitation is given?

(19) What is the nature of the rest which Jesus gives?

(20) Is it hard or easy, and why, to live a perfect Christian life?

Hair Fabrics.

In the manufacture of hair fabrics the hair is reduced to a paste by a solvent and all kinds of hair and fibers are used. The paste is run through an artificial silk spinner and drawn from the spinner in threads. Some of these are a yard or more in length. They can be braided or woven like artificial horse-hair. Hair composition of superior quality is kept for the manufacture of wigs and braids.—Harper's Weekly.

The Wandering Jew.

Matthew Paris and Roger Wendover identified the Wandering Jew as Cartaphilus, a porter in the household of Pontius Pilate. Other authorities identify him as Abasuerus, a cobbler of Jerusalem. The legend is far older than the events which it proposes as its central feature. In the course of its popularity throughout the middle ages it has acquired many foreign elements by accretion.

Honest Advice to Consumptives

Somehow there exists a vast amount of misconception as to the possibility of curing Consumption. We state none but facts, and are sincere in what we assert. If we were afflicted with Tuberculosis, we should do precisely what we ask others to do—take Beckman's Alternative promptly and faithfully. The reason we should do this and warrant we have for asking all Consumptives to take it, is that we have the reports of many recoveries, one of which follows:—
"Gentlemen: For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhages of the lungs, the number totaled nearly one hundred. Our family physician advised another change, as to remain would probably be fatal. However, I remained, and in February of 1902, I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I learned of and started taking Beckman's Alternative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced cured. Since that time I have had two slight attacks of pneumonia and I have resorted to no other medicine to effect a cure."
"I am at present in excellent health and feel that as long as I can obtain Beckman's Alternative, I have no fear of Consumption. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done."
(Signed) HOWARD L. KLOTZ.
Beckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung trouble, and in all conditions of the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Beckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more references. ## Light Touch

THE extremely light action of the Monarch

Typewriter endears it to all operators who use it.

The typist who takes pride in her position finds great satisfaction in being able to turn out as much work, and as good work, per hour, toward the end of the working day as during the morning. Other conditions being the same, she can always do this on a Monarch. There is for users of this machine. The mechanical reason for the Monarch light touch is found in the action of the Monarch type bar, an exclusive and patented feature which gives this remarkably light touch.

"No Three O'Clock Fatigue"

We would remind the business man that Monarch light touch means more work and better work, because less physical strength is expended by the operator. Therefore, cost per folio is reduced, making the Monarch a business economy.
